Demos Recess Assembly Row Until Monday

16th Roll Call Fails To Break Deadlock

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 9 (AP)—Democratic differences of opinion over who shall control the General Assembly continued irreconciliable today, prompting one boss to say "the party is on the edge of a precipice overlooking an abyss."

However, a senator reported after another caucus of the 18 Democrats "there was a real spirit of reconciliation shown."

The caucus was held after the Senate made its 16th futile effort to get the Legislature going and then called it off until Monday night.

Senator Shehan (D-Talbot), chairman of the caucus, reported the feeling of reconciliation. He said there will be individual talks between the senators, who are divided nine and nine, during the weekend.

Shehan expressed confidence the 18 Democrats will eventually get together to agree on the bones of contention, the presidency and chairmanships of the Finance and Judiciary Committees.

He expressed the hope they won't be forced into letting the 11 Republicans decide the winner since that would be a "bad tack for the Democratic Party."

The unprecedented deadlock has turned out to be a real war of nerves with probably control of the entire Democratic Party at stake. The Senate has met seven times since Wednesday and taken 16 roll calls without even electing a temporary president.

The result was the same every time. Two Democratic senators representing the tugging factions each got eight votes and Robert R. Kimble, the Republican floor leader, 10. It takes 15 votes to elect.

They took only one ballot at an eight-minute session this afternoon. Then one of the principal protagonists, Senator George W. Della of Baltimore's Sixth District, moved for recess until 8 p. m. Monday.

"It might be wise if we have a good night's sleep and then see if we can't solve this problem," he said. Della is being opposed for his third term as president by Sen. C. Ferdinand Sybert (D-Howard).

The House of Delegates already had recessed Thursday night until Monday. They organized in a 42-minute session on schedule Wednesday.

Budget "Balanced"

Chairman Styles Bridges (R-NH), chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, is only funning, of course, as he balances one copy of the new federal budget against another on these scales, but another member of the GOP, Rep. Daniel Reed (R-NY), described the budget as "fantastic" and said it was going to be balanced. President Truman's budget calls for expenditures of $78,587,000,000 during the coming fiscal year.

Widow Guilty Of Murdering Army Colonel

Shows No Emotion As Verdict Read

TOKYO, Saturday, Jan. 10. (AP)—A U. S. Army court-martial today convicted Dorothy Krueger Smith, daughter of a World War II general, of murdering her colonel husband and sentenced her to life in prison.

TOKYO, Saturday, Jan. 10. (AP)—A U. S. Army court-martial today convicted Dorothy Krueger Smith of premeditated murder in the stabbing of her colonel husband as he lay sleeping last October in their bedroom.

Mrs. Smith showed no emotion as the verdict was read. Earlier, she had broken down in tears during the closing argument.

The nine member board including one woman took about 65 minutes to reach its decision.

After announcing the decision, concurred in by at least six members, the board then recessed to consider the sentence.

Either death or life imprisonment is mandatory, the board was told by its law member.

Breaks Down In Tears

The defense wound up argument with a plea that the attractive daughter of retired Gen. Walter Krueger of World War II fame is a "wrecked personality and should not be charged with any criminality."

Mrs. Smith broke down in tears after shouting "stop" when Col. W. H. H. Jones, prosecution attorney said:

"I defy you to produce one expression of regret from this woman for the crime she has committed."

Court was recessed until she regained composure.

"We are fully conscious of the situation that lies ahead," Brig. Gen. Adam Richmond, of the defense, told the nine-member board. "I want to assure the court we are making plans for the future."

"Doped" Defense Says

Presumably these include a program of treatment for the 40-year-old mother of two. The defense has argued she is addicted to alcohol and sedatives and was "doped" with paraldehyde, a sedative, the night of Oct. 3 when Col. Aubrey Smith of Boonville, Mo., was stabbed in their Washington Heights home near Tokyo.

Colonel Jones told the court in rebuttal that Brig. Gen. Rawley Chambers, the Army's chief psychiatrist, had protected and sheltered Mrs. Smith. Chambers had testified that she was under the influence of sedatives and had no control over her actions.

Truman Orders Loyalty Checks Of Present, Future UN Employes

GUILTY — Dorothy Krueger Smith (above) was found guilty last night by a U. S. Army court-martial in Tokyo of premeditated murder in the death of her colonel husband as he lay sleeping in their bedroom.

3,000 Workers To Be Screened

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (AP)—President Truman today ordered loyalty investigations of all present and future American employes of the United Nations.

The order, announced by the White House, covers approximately 3,000 U. S. citizens presently employed on the U. N. Secretariat and in specialized agencies of the international organization.

Officials said the FBI is expected to start with 10 Americans who have been retained on the U. N. payroll at New York despite adverse reports from the State Department.

CSC Screening Provided

An outgrowth of charges in congressional inquiries and by a New York grand jury that the Secretariat harbors many pro-Communist Americans, the order provides:

1. A preliminary screening by the Civil Service Commission of most American employes of the U. N. If this turns up any derogatory information, a full investigation by the Federal Bureau of Investigation will follow.

2. A full investigation at the outset of American members of the "internationally recruited staff" of the U. N. — the more important jobs.

Lie, Commission To Confer

3. Passing on results of the investigations to the secretary general, who has responsibility under the charter for U. N. personnel. Where derogatory information is turned up, the employe concerned will be notified of his rights to appeal to a civil service regional loyalty board and the loyalty review board of the Civil Service Commission.

Ambassador Warren R. Austin handed a copy of the order to U. N. Secretary General Trygve Lie shortly before it was announced by the White House. A Civil Service Commission representative is expected to confer with Lie Monday to work out procedures. In the meantime Austin asked the secretary general to hold up action on any appointments.

Winter's Worst Snowstorm Hits Northeast Area

[By The Associated Press]

A swirling snowstorm lashed New England with its worst blow of the season Friday as torrential rains drenched parts of the South and West. Tornado winds hit parts of Florida.

In New England the snow was expected to pile up to two feet before the storm abates sometime Saturday. Hundreds of schools were closed and power and telephone service disrupted in many communities. Many roads were clogged.

The fierce weather was blamed for 14 deaths. In addition, at least 12 persons were reported hurt in the Florida winds. Property damage there was estimated at $250,000.

Off the East Coast, a small craft with 11 aboard was reported in distress as hard winds lashed coastal waters.

Nine inches of snow, heaviest winter storm in seven years, blanketed Boston. Snow depth at Albany, N. Y. was 13 inches, at Glen Falls, 15 inches.

Snow, sleet and freezing rain halted all plane flights in Rhode Island. Many airports shut down or delayed and cancelled flights.

Sleet and rain in Norwalk, Conn., prompted a state of emergency order from the mayor. Thirty-five high tension wires fell into the streets. Every policeman was ordered to duty.

New England and New York storm deaths included four persons killed in highway accidents, eight deaths from overexertion in deep snow, a fisherman lost off the Maine coast and a railroad worker killed while trying to melt ice from a switch.

The storm turned to sleet and freezing rain in Pennsylvania, Northern New Jersey, Boston and New York City.

10 Billion Cut In 78½ Billion Figure Urged

Truman Proposes Foreign Aid Boost

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (AP)—President Truman bequeathed the Eisenhower administration today what he called a tight federal budget proposing to spend $78,587,000,000 for "safety and well-being" at home and for combatting the Communist scourge abroad.

Republicans in Congress cried "spendthrift" and vowed to slash the figure. Some mentioned a cut of at least 10 billion dollars.

The vast spending proposal for the 1954 fiscal year starting July 1, 1953, contemplates a big boost in foreign aid and a record peacetime outlay to finance and equip America's growing military force.

The President estimated it would spell a federal deficit of nearly 10 billion dollars, increasing the national debt to a total of 274 billion.

The new budget is about $6,800,000,000 less than the one Truman submitted a year ago. At that time he proposed spending about $85,400,000,000 in the current fiscal year. But Congress changed some of his plans, and others were altered by failure of the defense program to meet production schedules. So today he estimated that spending for the present year would be about $74,600,000,000 instead of $85,400,000,000.

"Fantastic" Cry Goes Up

The budget for next year assumes that present prosperity will hold at present levels, that some taxes now on the books will be allowed to die on schedule, and that the incoming administration will continue foreign aid and military spending at a heavy rate.

GOP protests in Congress included such terms as "fantastic." Those talking of slashes singled out foreign aid as a likely starting point for economizing.

Both in Senate and House, Republicans who will have a hand in handling money and tax legislation predicted it won't be long before Eisenhower comes along with a much lower budget. Many of them said it ought to be possible to balance the budget and cut taxes at the same time.

Some Democrats joined in the clamor to slash spending.

House Speaker Martin commented:

"No one should be alarmed by today's phantom budget for 1954. It is a spendthrift budget, calculated on policies and programs which no longer prevail. At the proper time, the new administration will submit its own program, and a balanced budget to support it."

Taft Sticking To Pledge

Senate Majority Leader Taft of Ohio told reporters he is sticking with a pledge he and Eisenhower made last September during the presidential campaign, that spending under the new budget should be rolled back to 70 billion dollars.

President-elect Eisenhower already has his staff busy on methods for trimming the budget.

But the task is of titanic proportions. Three out of every four dollars the budget proposes to spend are listed in the category of national security. Much of this spending will be for planes, guided missiles and other weapons ordered months or even years ago.

Spending of that kind can't be shut off like a water faucet, as Eisenhower's budget experts freely acknowledge.

Air Raid On U. S. Outfit In Korea Is Investigated

SEOUL, Saturday, Jan. 10 (AP) — Air Force and Army investigators Friday examined burned tents, 15 bomb craters and a dud bomb in a U. S. service unit behind the lines where several American soldiers were killed or injured in an air attack but fixed no responsibility for the raid.

One soldier who saw the attack Thursday declared it came from a U. S. F-84 Thunderjet, but there was no official identification.

Others at the artillery service unit behind Western Front lines near Yonchon, said the raid was so swift they could not identify the plane.

Facts To Be Made Public

An Air Force spokesman said the facts would be made public as soon as it was known definitely if a U. S. plane was involved. Reporters who visited the scene were escorted by officers. Men they talked to were instructed not to speak of the attack.

The attacker swept in low for a strafing run, banked sharply, returned and bombed the area. Then the plane headed south, strengthening speculation that it was an Allied aircraft.

The raid destroyed, riddled or burned 10 tents and a pre-fabricated building, burned a fuel truck and destroyed a jeep. Its driver was killed.

"Several" Casualties

How many more casualties occurred were not specified. Authorities lumped them under the term "several."

One dud bomb was removed. Its markings were not revealed.

After questioning witnesses investigators reported there was "nothing to be able to point the finger at anyone or any one service."

The commander of the attacked unit said "we can't be sure — it was awful fast" when asked to identify the plane. A corps spokesman said soldiers were hit so unexpectedly their stories were conflicting. Some said more than one plane was involved.

Inauguration Jet Show Is Opposed As "Hazardous"

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (AP)—J. B. Hartranft, Jr., president of the Aircraft Owners and Pilots Association, urged federal authorities today to call off plans for some 400 jet planes to fly over the parade route during the inaugural ceremonies here on Jan. 20.

Hartranft called it an "extremely hazardous" project that might lead to "frightening" consequences.

In a letter to C. F. Horne, chief of the Civil Aeronautics Administration, Hartranft said he understood that more than 400 planes, mostly jets, are scheduled to fly in formation along Pennsylvania Avenue at altitudes as low as 2,000 feet and speeds as high as 400 m. p. h.

Morse May Lose Committee Seats

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (AP) — Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon, who bolted the Republican Party during the heat of the presidential election campaign, today appeared likely to be bumped from two choice committee assignments in the new 83rd Congress.

A tug-of-war over Morse's status as an independent developed as Senate leaders worked to fill out the all-important slates of committee assignments.

Republican informants said privately the probable upshot was that Morse would lose his present seats on the powerful Labor and Armed Services Committees and drop to minor committees where his role as the Senate's lone independent would not threaten major GOP strategy.

Sen. Case (R-SD) told newsmen the GOP theory is that Morse lacks seniority for committee assignments because he is starting out anew as an independent.

Case said the party takes the position that Morse lost his eight-year seniority as a Republican when he quit the party last fall.

Morse told reporters he plans to appeal to the entire Senate if he is dropped from the two key committees when the assignment slate comes before the chamber next week.

Ike Is Pictured As Still Against Deficit Spending

NEW YORK, Jan. 9 (AP)—President-elect Eisenhower reportedly renewed his opposition to deficit spending today — at almost the some moment that President Truman was submitting a deficit budget to Congress.

Rep. Coudert, New York Republican, visited Eisenhower and told newsmen the President-elect reaffirmed "he is very much in favor of balanced budgets and against deficit spending."

Truman's budget for the fiscal year starting July 1 totalled $78,587,000,000 with estimated receipts of $68,665,000,000, which would mean a deficit of $9,922,000,000.

Coudert said he was confident the Eisenhower administration would work with Republican Senate and House majorities to wipe out waste and duplication and reduce expenditures "to enable us to balance the budget with reduced taxes."

Coudert, a member of the House Appropriations Committee, stressed, however, that Eisenhower expressed no views to him "in any manner, shape or form" regarding possible tax reductions.

Washington produced other developments today concerning the new Republican administration that takes over Jan. 20.

Smith Appointment Reported

Sen. Wiley, Wisconsin Republican, told the Senate that Eisenhower has chosen Walter Bedell Smith, head of the Central Intelligence Agency and former ambassador to Moscow, as an undersecretary of state.

There had been no announcement of it from Eisenhower's headquarters here.

Sen. William Knowland, California Republican announced in Washington that he, Sen. Taft of Ohio and Sen. Millikin of Colorado would confer with Eisenhower in New York Monday to iron out patronage problems.

The Californian said there had been some misunderstandings and that the senators wanted to know just what their rights would be concerning patronage.

Democratic D. A. Indicted In Fees Case

NEW YORK, Jan. 9 (AP) — The Democratic district attorney of Queens County was twice indicted today, accused of illegally reaping thousands of dollars in tax case fees while he was in Congress.

The official, T. Vincent Quinn, claimed he is the target in a Justice Department test of an 89-year-old law that has never been too clearly interpreted. He said he had done no wrong.

Quinn split $35,500 with two men who were his law partners at the time he was in Congress from 1948 to 1951. They, too, were indicted, on charges of abetting him.

The fees came from New York City firms that hired Quinn's law partnership to represent them in tax cases here and in Washington.

Quinn, a one-time assistant U. S. attorney general, resigned from Congress in 1951 after his election as district attorney of New York City's third largest county.

He interprets the law to prohibit a congressman from sharing fees in a purely civil tax case. But he maintains there is no bar to taking fees in a criminal tax case.

The Justice Department, however, cited an 1864 law which it said prohibits the acceptance of such criminal tax fees.

Twisters Injure Dozen In Florida

SARASOTA, Fla., Jan. 9 (AP) — Tornado winds struck two sections of the Florida Gulf Coast today, destroying four rural homes, damaging 20 others and leaving a dozen persons injured.

A tornado described as the worst in memory pounded the strawberry section around Plant City in East Hillsborough County, where four homes were destroyed and six badly damaged.

The Red Cross reported 12 persons were injured, but all had only cuts and bruises except one, who had broken ribs.

A smaller twister dealt Sarasota a $100,000 blow, and roaring rainsqualls were felt far and wide over the southern half of Florida.

The Millsborough storm's path was declared a disaster area by the Red Cross. Relief workers were sent from Tampa.

Morse Revives Bill For Financial Requests

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (AP)—Sen. Morse (Ind-Ore(proposed anew today that Congress members and top government officials be required to make public annually their income and its sources, all their gifts, and list all their assets.

Morse introduced a bill to this effect in the last Congress but it received no consideration.

He said Sen. Douglas (D-Ill) and Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn) had signed a new bill with him as co-sponsors.

Bradley Has No Korea Solution

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (AP) — Rep. Short (R-Mo), incoming chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, said today a three-hour session with the nation's top general had produced "no answer on how or when we are going to get out of Korea."

"He says he doesn't know how and hasn't met anybody who does know," Short said, referring to Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Short said Bradley did not indicate whether military leaders are under any political restraint against using atomic weapons in Korea, but added:

"Some members of the committee feel as I do that sometimes military leaders have been a little curbed by high political decisions."

Short, who recently toured Korean front lines, said that in his opinion the question of using atomic weapons there should be a military decision based on whether the targets are sufficiently important "to justify the cost."

However, Short declared that any thought that the A-bomb is enough to win a war is "a false premise, a faint hope, a broken reed."

"You've got to have other forces," he said.

Commerce Dept. Clears Mrs. Leon Keyserling

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (AP)—The Commerce Department has cleared Mrs. Leon Keyserling of disloyalty charges, an informed source said today, and she has been reinstated in her $10,000-a-year government job.

Mrs. Keyserling is the wife of the chairman of President Truman's Economic Advisory Council. She heads the Commerce Department's international economic analysis division.

The findings of the Commerce Department inquiry, it was learned, now go to the President's loyalty review board for final abjudication.

Six Women May Be Tapped By Ike For Key Positions

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (AP)—Glamorous Clare Booth Luce, former member of the House from Connecticut, is being mentioned in informed quarters as a possible ambassador to a Catholic country, perhaps Italy.

Mrs. Hiram Cole Houghton of Red Oak, Ia., former president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, is also being spoken of as President-elect Eisenhower's likely choice for ambassador to the Netherlands.

In addition four other women are expected to be tapped for key posts in the incoming administration, according to those close to the situation. The four and their likely appointments are:

Mrs. Charles P. Howard of Reading, Mass., presidential administrative assistant; Mrs. Oswald B. Lord, New York, U. S. delegate to the United Nations succeeding Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt; Mrs. Zelma George, Cleveland, Negro sociologist, alternate to the U. N., and Mrs. Anne Wheaton, Washington, D. C., White House press staff.

Also when the Republican National Committee meets here Jan. 17 it is expected to select Miss Bertha Adkins, Salisbury, Md., as assistant chairman and head of the women's division of the national committee.

Drive For $40,000 Lattimore Defense Fund Is Launched

BALTIMORE, Jan. 9 (AP)—Dr. George Boas, head of the Johns Hopkins University philosophy department, has launched a campaign to collect a $40,000 defense fund for Owen Lattimore.

Lattimore was placed on leave of absence from his position on the Hopkins faculty after a Federal Grand Jury indicted him on a charge of perjury.

The charges arose from statements Lattimore made before a Congressional committee. He is accused of lying under oath before the committee on several occasions, one of them being when he swore he never tried to further Communist aims in his work with the State Department.

Dr. Boas stressed that the fund is a purely private venture on his part and has nothing to do with the university.

Defense Resignations Accepted By Truman

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (AP)—President Truman today formally accepted the resignations of Secretary of Defense Lovett and the heads of the three armed services, effective with the inauguration of Dwight D. Eisenhower as President.

The other resignations are those of:

Frank Pace Jr. as secretary of the Army.

Dan Kimball as secretary of the Navy.

Churchill In Jamaica

AFL Predicts Death Of Controls Under Ike

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (AP)—The AFL today predicted "sudden death" for all wage and price controls soon after President-elect Eisenhower takes office this month.

The AFL News-Reporter, the federation's official publication, quoted well-informed sources as saying the new President "was reported ready to call upon Congress" to kill controls before their expiration date—April 30.

The AFL recently called for a continuing controls program with tighter price ceilings than now exist.

Chair Presented Truman

Today's Chuckle

"Jones," said the chemistry teacher, "give the formula for water."

"HIJKLMNO."

"Whatever are you driving at?" exclaimed the teacher. "Do you think you're in kindergarten?"

"No, sir," said Jones, "but you said yesterday that the formula for water was H to O."

7th Grade Teacher Resigns In Row Over Kissing Games

PRINCESS ANNE, Md., Jan. 9 (AP)—There will be no more kissing games in the seventh grade general science classes at Washington High School, not even in the interest of general science.

The county board of education has stopped them.

Louis L. Pund, the 40-year-old science and mathematics teacher who put "Postoffice" in the curriculum, faced "further action," his supervisor announced.

Pund did not wait for the action. He designed this morning.

Pund said his idea was to help his 12-year-old seventh graders, overcome their inhibitions.

"I believe it would draw them out," he said.

"Lots of boys and girls are afraid and have inhibitions."

Pund started what he calls his experiment about a month ago with the 65 pupils in his two seventh grade science classes.

The class would elect a boy and he would go into an adjoining cloak room. Then he'd call out the name of a girl to come in and kiss him.

Next it was a girl's turn to be "it."

Eight Missing In Shipwreck

TOKYO, Saturday, Jan. 10 (AP)—The Japanese Maritime Safety Board reported Friday that rescue ships had picked up 33 survivors of the ill-fated Swedish tanker Avanti but eight others, including the skipper, were missing and feared dead.

The 10,034-ton vessel from Gothenburg broke in half off Okinawa during a Pacific gale Thursday.

The Japanese patrol ship Kusagaki reported 21 survivors in a life-boat were taken aboard the freighter Kanazu Maru. It said 11 others were aboard a Chinese Nationalist freighter from Formosa, possibly the Yen Ping out of Keelung. One more person was aboard the British vessel Eastern.

Noted Executive Dies

DETROIT, Jan. 9 (AP)—Henry T. Ewald, nationally known Detroit advertising executive, died today. He was 67.

Ewald, founder and chairman of the board of the Campbell-Ewald Company, died in Grace Hospital after a heart attack.

Weather Forecast

10 Billion Cut In 78½ Billion Figure Urged

Truman Proposes Foreign Aid Boost

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (AP)—President Truman bequeathed the Eisenhower administration today what he called a tight federal budget proposing to spend $78,587,000,000 for "safety and well-being" at home and for combatting the Communist scourge abroad.

Republicans in Congress cried "spendthrift" and vowed to slash the figure. Some mentioned a cut of at least 10 billion dollars.

The vast spending proposal for the 1954 fiscal year starting July 1, 1953, contemplates a big boost in foreign aid and a record peacetime outlay to finance and equip America's growing military force.

The President estimated it would spell a federal deficit of nearly 10 billion dollars, increasing the national debt to a total of 274 billion.

The new budget is about $6,800,000,000 less than the one Truman submitted a year ago. At that time he proposed spending about $85,400,000,000 in the current fiscal year. But Congress changed some of his plans, and others were altered by failure of the defense program to meet production schedules. So today he estimated that spending for the present year would be about $74,600,000,000 instead of $85,400,000,000.

"Fantastic" Cry Goes Up

The budget for next year assumes that present prosperity will hold at present levels, that some taxes now on the books will be allowed to die on schedule, and that the incoming administration will continue foreign aid and military spending at a heavy rate.

GOP protests in Congress included such terms as "fantastic." Those talking of slashes singled out foreign aid as a likely starting point for economizing.

Both in Senate and House, Republicans who will have a hand in handling money and tax legislation predicted it won't be long before Eisenhower comes along with a much lower budget. Many of them said it ought to be possible to balance the budget and cut taxes at the same time.

Some Democrats joined in the clamor to slash spending.

House Speaker Martin commented:

"No one should be alarmed by today's phantom budget for 1954. It is a spendthrift budget, calculated on policies and programs which no longer prevail. At the proper time, the new administration will submit its own program, and a balanced budget to support it."

Taft Sticking To Pledge

Senate Majority Leader Taft of Ohio told reporters he is sticking with a pledge he and Eisenhower made last September during the presidential campaign, that spending under the new budget should be rolled back to 70 billion dollars.

President-elect Eisenhower already has his staff busy on methods for trimming the budget.

But the task is of titanic proportions. Three out of every four dollars the budget proposes to spend are listed in the category of national security. Much of this spending will be for planes, guided missiles and other weapons ordered months or even years ago.

Spending of that kind can't be shut off like a water faucet, as Eisenhower's budget experts freely acknowledge.

Air Raid On U. S. Outfit In Korea Is Investigated

SEOUL, Saturday, Jan. 10 (AP)—Air Force and Army investigators Friday examined burned tents, 15 bomb craters and a dud bomb in a U. S. service unit behind the lines where several American soldiers were killed or injured in an air attack but fixed no responsibility for the raid.

One soldier who saw the attack Thursday declared it came from a U. S. F-84 Thunderjet, but there was no official identification.

Others at the artillery service unit behind Western Front lines near Yonchon, said the raid was so swift they could not identify the plane.

Facts To Be Made Public

An Air Force spokesman said the facts would be made public as soon as it was known definitely if a U. S. plane was involved. Reporters who visited the scene were escorted by officers. Men they talked to were instructed not to speak of the attack.

The attacker swept in low for a strafing run, banked sharply, returned and bombed the area. Then the plane headed south, strengthening speculation that it was an Allied aircraft.

The raid destroyed, riddled or burned 10 tents and a pre-fabricated building, burned a fuel truck and destroyed a jeep. Its driver was killed.

"Several" Casualties

How many more casualties occurred were not specified. Authorities lumped them under the term "several."

One dud bomb was removed. Its markings were not revealed.

After questioning witnesses investigators reported there was "nothing to be able to point the finger at anyone or any one service."

The commander of the attacked unit said "we can't be sure — it was awful fast" when asked to identify the plane. A corps spokesman said soldiers were hit so unexpectedly their stories were conflicting. Some said more than one plane was involved.

Inauguration Jet Show Is Opposed As "Hazardous"

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (AP)—J. B. Hartranft, Jr., president of the Aircraft Owners and Pilots Association, urged federal authorities today to call off plans for some 400 jet planes to fly over the parade route during the inaugural ceremonies here on Jan. 20.

Hartranft called it an "extremely hazardous" project that might lead to "frightening" consequences.

In a letter to C. F. Horne, chief of the Civil Aeronautics Administration, Hartranft said he understood that more than 400 planes, mostly jets, are scheduled to fly in formation along Pennsylvania Avenue at altitudes as low as 2,000 feet and speeds as high as 400 m. p. h.

Morse May Lose Committee Seats

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (AP) — Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon, who bolted the Republican Party during the heat of the presidential election campaign, today appeared likely to be bumped from two choice committee assignments in the new 83rd Congress.

A tug-of-war over Morse's status as an independent developed as Senate leaders worked to fill out the all-important slates of committee assignments.

Republican informants said privately the probable upshot was that Morse would lose his present seats on the powerful Labor and Armed Services Committees and drop to minor committees where his role as the Senate's lone independent would not threaten major GOP strategy.

Sen. Case (R-SD) told newsmen the GOP theory is that Morse lacks seniority for committee assignments because he is starting out anew as an independent.

Case said the party takes the position that Morse lost his eight-year seniority as a Republican when he quit the party last fall.

Morse told reporters he plans to appeal to the entire Senate if he is dropped from the two key committees when the assignment slate comes before the chamber next week.

Ike Is Pictured As Still Against Deficit Spending

NEW YORK, Jan. 9 (AP)—President-elect Eisenhower reportedly renewed his opposition to deficit spending today — at almost the some moment that President Truman was submitting a deficit budget to Congress.

Rep. Coudert, New York Republican, visited Eisenhower and told newsmen the President-elect reaffirmed "he is very much in favor of balanced budgets and against deficit spending."

Truman's budget for the fiscal year starting July 1 totalled $78,587,000,000 with estimated receipts of $68,665,000,000, which would mean a deficit of $9,922,000,000.

Coudert said he was confident the Eisenhower administration would work with Republican Senate and House majorities to wipe out waste and duplication and reduce expenditures "to enable us to balance the budget with reduced taxes."

Coudert, a member of the House Appropriations Committee, stressed, however, that Eisenhower expressed no views to him "in any manner, shape or form" regarding possible tax reductions.

Washington produced other developments today concerning the new Republican administration that takes over Jan. 20.

Smith Appointment Reported

Sen. Wiley, Wisconsin Republican, told the Senate that Eisenhower has chosen Walter Bedell Smith, head of the Central Intelligence Agency and former ambassador to Moscow, as an undersecretary of state.

There had been no announcement of it from Eisenhower's headquarters here.

Sen. William Knowland, California Republican announced in Washington that he, Sen. Taft of Ohio and Sen. Millikin of Colorado would confer with Eisenhower in New York Monday to iron out patronage problems.

The Californian said there had been some misunderstandings and that the senators wanted to know just what their rights would be concerning patronage.

Drive For $40,000 Lattimore Defense Fund Is Launched

BALTIMORE, Jan. 9 (AP)—Dr. George Boas, head of the Johns Hopkins University philosophy department, has launched a campaign to collect a $40,000 defense fund for Owen Lattimore.

Lattimore was placed on leave of absence from his position on the Hopkins faculty after a Federal Grand Jury indicted him on a charge of perjury.

The charges arose from statements Lattimore made before a Congressional committee. He is accused of lying under oath before the committee on several occasions, one of them being when he swore he never tried to further Communist aims in his work with the State Department.

Dr. Boas stressed that the fund is a purely private venture on his part and has nothing to do with the university.

Defense Resignations Accepted By Truman

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (AP)—President Truman today formally accepted the resignations of Secretary of Defense Lovett and the heads of the three armed services, effective with the inauguration of Dwight D. Eisenhower as President.

The other resignations are those of:

Frank Pace Jr. as secretary of the Army.

Dan Kimball as secretary of the Navy.

Churchill In Jamaica

Democratic D. A. Indicted In Fees Case

NEW YORK, Jan. 9 (AP) — The Democratic district attorney of Queens County was twice indicted today, accused of illegally reaping thousands of dollars in tax case fees while he was in Congress.

The official, T. Vincent Quinn, claimed he is the target in a Justice Department test of an 89-year-old law that has never been too clearly interpreted. He said he had done no wrong.

Quinn split $35,500 with two men who were his law partners at the time he was in Congress from 1948 to 1951. They, too, were indicted, on charges of abetting him.

The fees came from New York City firms that hired Quinn's law partnership to represent them in tax cases here and in Washington.

Quinn, a one-time assistant U. S. attorney general, resigned from Congress in 1951 after his election as district attorney of New York City's third largest county.

He interprets the law to prohibit a congressman from sharing fees in a purely civil tax case. But he maintains there is no bar to taking fees in a criminal tax case.

The Justice Department, however, cited an 1864 law which it said prohibits the acceptance of such criminal tax fees.

AFL Predicts Death Of Controls Under Ike

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (AP)—The AFL today predicted "sudden death" for all wage and price controls soon after President-elect Eisenhower takes office this month.

The AFL News-Reporter, the federation's official publication, quoted well-informed sources as saying the new President "was reported ready to call upon Congress" to kill controls before their expiration date—April 30.

The AFL recently called for a continuing controls program with tighter price ceilings than now exist.

Twisters Injure Dozen In Florida

SARASOTA, Fla., Jan. 9 (AP) — Tornado winds struck two sections of the Florida Gulf Coast today, destroying four rural homes, damaging 20 others and leaving a dozen persons injured.

A tornado described as the worst in memory pounded the strawberry section around Plant City in East Hillsborough County, where four homes were destroyed and six badly damaged.

The Red Cross reported 12 persons were injured, but all had only cuts and bruises except one, who had broken ribs.

A smaller twister dealt Sarasota a $100,000 blow, and roaring rainsqualls were felt far and wide over the southern half of Florida.

The Millsborough storm's path was declared a disaster area by the Red Cross. Relief workers were sent from Tampa.

Morse Revives Bill For Financial Requests

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (AP)—Sen. Morse (Ind-Ore) proposed anew today that Congress members and top government officials be required to make public annually their income and its sources, all their gifts, and list all their assets.

Morse introduced a bill to this effect in the last Congress but it received no consideration.

He said Sen. Douglas (D-Ill) and Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn) had signed a new bill with him as co-sponsors.

Eight Missing In Shipwreck

TOKYO, Saturday, Jan. 10 (AP)—The Japanese Maritime Safety Board reported Friday that rescue ships had picked up 33 survivors of the ill-fated Swedish tanker Avanti but eight others, including the skipper, were missing and feared dead.

The 10,034-ton vessel from Gothenburg broke in half off Okinawa during a Pacific gale Thursday.

The Japanese patrol ship Kusagaki reported 21 survivors in a life-boat were taken aboard the freighter Kanazu Maru. It said 11 others were aboard a Chinese Nationalist freighter from Formosa, possibly the Yen Ping out of Keelung. One more person was aboard the British vessel Eastern.

Noted Executive Dies

DETROIT, Jan. 9 (AP)—Henry T. Ewald, nationally known Detroit advertising executive, died today. He was 67.

Ewald, founder and chairman of the board of the Campbell-Ewald Company, died in Grace Hospital after a heart attack.

Six Women May Be Tapped By Ike For Key Positions

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (AP)—Glamorous Clare Booth Luce, former member of the House from Connecticut, is being mentioned in informed quarters as a possible ambassador to a Catholic country, perhaps Italy.

Mrs. Hiram Cole Houghton of Red Oak, Ia., former president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, is also being spoken of as President-elect Eisenhower's likely choice for ambassador to the Netherlands.

In addition four other women are expected to be tapped for key posts in the incoming administration, according to those close to the situation. The four and their likely appointments are:

Mrs. Charles P. Howard of Reading, Mass., presidential administrative assistant; Mrs. Oswald B. Lord, New York, U. S. delegate to the United Nations succeeding Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt; Mrs. Zelma George, Cleveland, Negro sociologist, alternate to the U. N., and Mrs. Anne Wheaton, Washington, D. C., White House press staff.

Also when the Republican National Committee meets here Jan. 17 it is expected to select Miss Bertha Adkins, Salisbury, Md., as assistant chairman and head of the women's division of the national committee.

Bradley Has No Korea Solution

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (AP) — Rep. Short (R-Mo), incoming chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, said today a three-hour session with the nation's top general had produced "no answer on how or when we are going to get out of Korea."

"He says he doesn't know how and hasn't met anybody who does know," Short said, referring to Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Short said Bradley did not indicate whether military leaders are under any political restraint against using atomic weapons in Korea, but added:

"Some members of the committee feel as I do that sometimes military leaders have been a little curbed by high political decisions."

Short, who recently toured Korean front lines, said that in his opinion the question of using atomic weapons there should be a military decision based on whether the targets are sufficiently important "to justify the cost."

However, Short declared that any thought that the A-bomb is enough to win a war is "a false premise, a faint hope, a broken reed."

"You've got to have other forces," he said.

Commerce Dept. Clears Mrs. Leon Keyserling

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (AP)—The Commerce Department has cleared Mrs. Leon Keyserling of disloyalty charges, an informed source said today, and she has been reinstated in her $10,000-a-year government job.

Mrs. Keyserling is the wife of the chairman of President Truman's Economic Advisory Council. She heads the Commerce Department's international economic analysis division.

The findings of the Commerce Department inquiry, it was learned, now go to the President's loyalty review board for final abjudication.

7th Grade Teacher Resigns In Row Over Kissing Games

PRINCESS ANNE, Md., Jan. 9 (AP)—There will be no more kissing games in the seventh grade general science classes at Washington High School, not even in the interest of general science.

The county board of education has stopped them.

Louis L. Pund, the 40-year-old science and mathematics teacher who put "Postoffice" in the curriculum, faced "further action," his supervisor announced.

Pund did not wait for the action. He designed this morning.

Pund said his idea was to help his 12-year-old seventh graders, overcome their inhibitions.

"I believe it would draw them out," he said.

"Lots of boys and girls are afraid and have inhibitions."

Pund started what he calls his experiment about a month ago with the 65 pupils in his two seventh grade science classes.

The class would elect a boy and he would go into an adjoining cloak room. Then he'd call out the name of a girl to come in and kiss him.

Next it was a girl's turn to be "it."

Pund's classes tried Postoffice four times before parents started complaining to the principal.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (AP)—The big leather chair President Truman has occupied at Cabinet meetings was presented to him today by members of his Cabinet. They bought it from the government.

Truman Appears For Final Time In Favorite Role

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (AP)—Harry Truman has appeared for the last time in a favorite role—old Dr. Facts and Figures himself.

As always, he played it to the hilt, tossing around billion-dollar figures with the easy assurance of a Missouri farmer pitching hay.

The occasion was the unveiling of the $78,600,000 federal budget for 1953-54. Each year since he became President, Truman has sat down with newsmen and hashed over the following year's budget. He wants to be sure they have their facts straight. Besides, he has enjoyed these annual budget talks.

Yesterday's was no exception.

Relaxed, often stroking his chin, Truman spent 54 minutes answering or occasionally parrying questions, tossing in some homespun philosophy, taking a few quiet digs at the Republicans.

Mostly he had quick, if not always easily grasped, answers to the questions peppered at him by nearly 100 correspondents. But sometimes he bucked the tough or technical ones to Secretary of the Treasury John W. Snyder, seated at his right, or to Budget Director Frederick Lawton on his left.

Charts and graphs lined the wall behind the President. One showed a big silver dollar sliced like a pie to show where the government's money comes from. You won't be surprised to learn whose name was on the biggest slice: Yours. Forty-one cents out of every dollar the government takes in comes from direct taxes on individuals.

Baltimore's Schools Reopen As Strike Ends

BALTIMORE, Jan. 9 (AP) — The public schools were back almost to normal today after their janitors returned to work, but the city still was deadlocked with about 3,000 other striking municipal employes.

Garbage has been piling up since New Year's Day.

"As far as our department is concerned, the strike is over," announced John W. Lewis, business manager of the schools.

Only four of the city's 176 failed to reopen this morning. Their janitors did not get on the job in time to get the heat up. On Monday, at the end of the Christmas holidays, 104 of the schools had remained closed because they lacked heat.

Hopes of settling the strike in the other city departments were faint. Negotiations collapsed last night and there was no move to resume them today.

Intensive Air Search For C-46 Fruitless

MONTPELIER, Idaho, Jan. 9 (AP)—An estimated 50 planes took advantage of partially clear skies today to make an intensive search—without success—for a troop transport which disappeared over a rugged mountain area with 40 persons aboard.

Other searchers reported they located the pilot of an F-51 Mustang plane who parachuted from his Air Force craft into deep snow only a few miles from the Continental Divide.

The downed pilot was located beside his parachute near Kilgore, in Eastern Idaho.

That was about 185 airlnie miles northwest of the area where the careful search for the missing C-46 troop carrier centered. The craft, with a crew of three and 37 war veterans returning from Korea for discharge aboard, last reported over Malad City, Idaho, early Wednesday.

Nine Listed As Dead In Mid-Air B-50 Crash

SAVANNAH, Ga., Jan. 9 (AP)—The Air Force tonight officially listed as dead nine crewmen of a B-50 bomber sent hurtling into a coastal marsh after collision with a sister ship at 14,000 feet Wednesday night.

Hunter Air Force Base authorities said some of the bodies probably could never be recovered. At first they held a faint hope that some of the men may have parachuted to safety.

A wing apparently was sheared from the craft in a brush with another B-50, which was able to land safely with its crew of 10 although ten feet of its tail assembly was ripped off.

Camels To The Rescue

CALCUTTA, India, Jan. 9 (AP) — The Chinese Communists have been compelled to send 2,000 camels to Tibet to ease the desperate transport problems of their estimated 20,000 troops there, according to word reaching Calcutta today from Lhasa, the Tibetan capital.

Karachi Riots Leave 11 Dead

KARACHI, Pakistan, Jan. 9 (AP)—Armed student mobs, said by security officials to have been infiltrated by Communists, rioted, burned shops and fought with police in Karachi's streets again today and turned their vengeance against foreigners.

Casualties mounted to 11 killed and more than 150 injured in the three days of disturbance, set off Wednesday by student protests against a 45 per cent hike in tuition fees.

Three battalions of troops were called in to help police and a dusk-to-dawn curfew was proclaimed throughout this Moslem city.

The military was given orders to shoot at sight anybody seen looting or setting fires.

Late today the mob's attacks turned against foreign property. A warehouse owned by a British firm on McLeod Road, where most foreign businesses are located, was looted and burned.

Chief Commissioner Abu Talib Naqvi told reporters tonight that Communists definitely had a hand in the disorders and that he anticipated "more trouble tomorrow."

Three persons were killed and 42 injured today when police fired on the mobs.

Military Budget Stresses Airpower And Firepower

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (AP)—Congress had before it today a military budget laying heavy stress on airpower and firepower — recommending more warplanes, a bigger atomic bomb stockpile, another supercarrier for the Navy.

To go forward with this phase of the rearmament program, President Truman proposed that the Defense Department spend $46,296,000,000 in the fiscal year starting July 1 and be authorized to take on obligations amounting to an additional 41½ billion.

Pentagon fiscal experts figures on the actual expenditure somewhat higher, about 48 billion.

That would be a record for military spending since World War II, but Truman saw a possibility that arms spending might begin to decline about 1955 and perhaps level off at a figure between 35 and 40 billion dollars.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (AP)—President Truman today revised downward, for a second time, his estimate of the federal deficit in this fiscal year, which ends June 30.

Instead of the $14,400,000,000 in red ink foreseen last January, the deficit in mid-1953 will be $5,900,000,000, Truman estimated. Spending for the year will be $10,800,000,000 less than he anticipated — $74,600,000,000 instead of $85,400,000,000.

Reasons for the wide discrepancy, the President said, are "production difficulties" which have held back military spending; changes made in the budget after he sent it to Congress a year ago; and legislation passed in the last session.

Cabinet Confirmation January 20 Likely

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (AP)—Republican and Democratic leaders in the Senate agreed today to try for confirmation of President-elect Eisenhower's nine Cabinet appointments on inauguration day, Jan 20.

Sen. Knowland of California, chairman of the GOP Policy Committee, told reporters the new President is anxious to swear in his Cabinet at a White House ceremony either on the afternoon or night of the day he takes office.

The Democratic leader in the Senate, Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, assured the Republican leadership today that his party will co-operate toward this end, taking part in informal advance hearings on the appointments.

Hershey Says Nation Must "Toughen Up" On Draft Deferments

AUSTIN, Tex., Jan. 9 (AP) — National Draft Director Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey said here today the nation is going to have to "toughen up" on draft deferments, particularly on college students.

The tightening up is not up to him, however, but to the President, Congress and local draft boards, he said.

"I don't issue the regulations. The President never delegated that authority," Hershey told reporters. He said Congress would act "when it has to."

The nation's draft chief was here on an official visit to the state's selective service headquarters.

Nine Listed As Dead In Mid-Air B-50 Crash

SAVANNAH, Ga., Jan. 9 (AP)—The Air Force tonight officially listed as dead nine crewmen of a B-50 bomber sent hurtling into a coastal marsh after collision with a sister ship at 14,000 feet Wednesday night.

Hunter Air Force Base authorities said some of the bodies probably could never be recovered. At first they held a faint hope that some of the men may have parachuted to safety.

A wing apparently was sheared from the craft in a brush with another B-50, which was able to land safely with its crew of 10 although ten feet of its tail assembly was ripped off.

Camels To The Rescue

CALCUTTA, India, Jan. 9 (AP) — The Chinese Communists have been compelled to send 2,000 camels to Tibet to ease the desperate transport problems of their estimated 20,000 troops there, according to word reaching Calcutta today from Lhasa, the Tibetan capital.

BAD COUGHS
CAUSED BY COLDS

Thousands of doctors prescribe this famous modern cough medicine. PERTUSSIN increases natural secretions and acts at once to relieve such coughing. It loosens that sticky phlegm and makes it easier to raise. PERTUSSIN is safe and mighty effective for both old and young. And it tastes so good! Any drugstore.

Karachi Riots Leave 11 Dead

KARACHI, Pakistan, Jan. 9 (AP)—Armed student mobs, said by security officials to have been infiltrated by Communists, rioted, burned shops and fought with police in Karachi's streets again today and turned their vengeance against foreigners.

Casualties mounted to 11 killed and more than 150 injured in the three days of disturbance, set off Wednesday by student protests against a 45 per cent hike in tuition fees.

Three battalions of troops were called in to help police and a dusk-to-dawn curfew was proclaimed throughout this Moslem city.

The military was given orders to shoot at sight anybody seen looting or setting fires.

Late today the mob's attacks turned against foreign property. A warehouse owned by a British firm on McLeod Road, where most foreign businesses are located, was looted and burned.

Chief Commissioner Abu Talib Naqvi told reporters tonight that Communists definitely had a hand in the disorders and that he anticipated "more trouble tomorrow."

Three persons were killed and 42 injured today when police fired on the mobs.

Military Budget Stresses Airpower And Firepower

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (AP)—Congress had before it today a military budget laying heavy stress on airpower and firepower — recommending more warplanes, a bigger atomic bomb stockpile, another supercarrier for the Navy.

To go forward with this phase of the rearmament program, President Truman proposed that the Defense Department spend $46,296,000,000 in the fiscal year starting July 1 and be authorized to take on obligations amounting to an additional 41½ billion.

Pentagon fiscal experts figures on the actual expenditure somewhat higher, about 48 billion.

That would be a record for military spending since World War II, but Truman saw a possibility that arms spending might begin to decline about 1955 and perhaps level off at a figure between 35 and 40 billion dollars.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (AP)—President Truman today revised downward, for a second time, his estimate of the federal deficit in this fiscal year, which ends June 30.

Instead of the $14,400,000,000 in red ink foreseen last January, the deficit in mid-1953 will be $5,900,000,000, Truman estimated. Spending for the year will be $10,800,000,000 less than he anticipated — $74,600,000,000 instead of $85,400,000,000.

Reasons for the wide discrepancy, the President said, are "production difficulties" which have held back military spending; changes made in the budget after he sent it to Congress a year ago; and legislation passed in the last session.

Cabinet Confirmation January 20 Likely

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (AP)—Republican and Democratic leaders in the Senate agreed today to try for confirmation of President-elect Eisenhower's nine Cabinet appointments on inauguration day, Jan 20.

Sen. Knowland of California, chairman of the GOP Policy Committee, told reporters the new President is anxious to swear in his Cabinet at a White House ceremony either on the afternoon or night of the day he takes office.

The Democratic leader in the Senate, Sen. Lyndon Jonnson of Texas, assured the Republican leadership today that his party will co-operate toward this end, taking part in informal advance hearings on the appointments.

Hershey Says Nation Must "Toughen Up" On Draft Deferments

AUSTIN, Tex., Jan. 9 (AP) — National Draft Director Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey said here today the nation is going to have to "toughen up" on draft deferments, particularly on college students.

The tightening up is not up to him, however, but to the President, Congress and local draft boards, he said.

"I don't issue the regulations. The President never delegated that authority," Hershey told reporters. He said Congress would act "when it has to."

The nation's draft chief was here on an official visit to the state's selective service headquarters.

Those installed were John Sensabaugh, chancellor commander; Clark Catlett, vice chancellor; John Nesbit, prelate; Grover N. Sensabaugh, master of work; Charles C. Wolford, secretary; Nelson W. Russler, financial secretary; Joseph C. Wilson, treasurer: Edward Crist, master at arms; Walter E. Kline, inner guard; Howard Feagles, outer guard; C. C. Wolford, representative to the Grand Lodge; W. E. Kline, alternate.

A membership drive will be started February 1 by the lodge with Russler as chairman. Drive committee members will include Schindler, Davis, A. F. Weltman, E. S. Crist and C. C. Wolford.

List Of Draftees Is Released Here

P. Emmett Fahey, clerk coordinator of Selective Service Headquarters here, yesterday released the names of five registrants who will report January 27 in Baltimore for induction into the armed forces.

Entering service from Board 29 will be Robert Thomas Klink, RD 5, city; Walter Calvin Glass, 232 Bedford Street; Martin Luther Higgs, Cresaptown; Francis Casper Rohman Jr., 218 Saratoga Street, and Calvin Earl Walbert, RD 5, Cresap Park.

Fahey said 30 other men will accompany the inductees for physical examinations. The contingent will leave the Union Street County Building at 7 a. m. via Blue Ridge bus.

Board 27 will send 30 registrants to Baltimore on January 20 for physicals.

Next month, 53,000 men will be inducted throughout the country. Maryland's quota is 790.

Meetings Planned By Banking Firms

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Commercial Savings Bank will be held today at 2:30 p. m., with the directors named scheduled to meet afterwards to select officers of the institution.

Other stockholder meetings planned by local banking firms include First National, Tuesday, with the directors named to meet at a later date; Liberty Trust, Monday, January 26, with the directors to meet immediately afterwards, and Second National, Tuesday, January 27, with a separate meeting scheduled at a later date for the directors to name new officials.

The stockholders of the First Federal Savings and Loan Association will be held Wednesday, January 21, with the board of directors meeting slated immediately afterwards.

Ridgeley Railroader Injured At Work

Carl J. Roy, 38, of 32 Bridge Street, Ridgeley, was admitted to the Connellsville (Pa.) State Hospital on Wednesday after being injured while working for the Western Maryland Railway at Indian Creek.

The accident occurred when Roy slipped and fell. He received a laceration of the right side of the forehead and a possible fracture of the right upper arm, the hospital reported.

Body Is Identified As Cumberland Man

The body of a man found dead in a New York rooming house was positively identified as William F. Ryland, 43, of Cumberland, by his sister, Mrs. Marguerite Lillis of Bay Shore, Long Island.

Dr. Benjamin M. Vance, deputy chief medical examiner of New York City, said death was due to coronary arteriosclerosis. Ryland was found sitting in a chair, dead.

The body will be brought back to Cumberland.

To Close Vote Office

The voter registration office in the Court House will be closed the first four days next week while a concrete floor is being laid in the basement quarters, according to William A. Wilson, chairman of the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors.

Communist Anti-Semitism

Jews are expected to be chief victims of a new wave of satellite purges, touched off by the recent trial and conviction at Prague of Rudolf Slansky and 10 other top Czech Communists of Jewish background. Next in line for Red show trials may be Romania's ex-foreign minister, Ana Pauker, and Poland's ex-deputy premier, Wladyslaw Gomulka.

Ana Pauker has been held in prison more than seven months, Gomulka for two years. How long Hungary's Red premier, Matyos Rakosi, and Poland's top economic planner, Hilary Minc, will remain in power is a matter of doubt. The future of scores of lesser-ranking Jewish Communists in Eastern Europe seems equally precarious.

The Prague trial gave clear evidence that the Kremlin now regards Jewish subjects of the Soviet empire as singularly suspect and readily expendable. The Jewish character of the defendants was repeatedly stressed; they were accused of plotting with a mythical world-wide Jewish counter-revolutionary organization directed from the United States, and Jews in general were blamed for all the worst failures of the Red regime in Czechoslovakia.

A 10-column article in the official organ of the East German Communist party on January 4 carried the heading "Lesson in the Trial of the Slansky Plotters." It charged Paul Merker, a former member of the Politbureau, with trying to find ways for "Zionist agents to enter Germany as spies and diversionists" and called for a thorough purge of the agents of "capitalist Jewry." Gerhart Eisler who lost his place as chief of the East German Information Bureau at the end of last year stands in obvious danger.

President-elect Eisenhower denounced the Prague trial, December 21, as a "mockery of civilized and humanitarian values," and a "particular political act" designed "to unloose a campaign of rabid anti-Semitism through Soviet Russia and the satellite nations of Eastern Europe."

Western sources estimate that a maximum 500,000 Jews now are in satellite Europe: 250,000 in Romania; 150,000 in Hungary; 70-80,000 in Poland; 20,000 in Czechoslovakia; and a few thousand in Bulgaria. During the last four years, Red satellite regimes have been forcing their Jewish citizens into the same sort of straitjacket that binds and isolates the two million Jews remaining in the Soviet Union.

Jewish businesses — large and small — have been expropriated. All specifically Jewish cultural, religious, and welfare organizations have been either liquidated or made subject to full Communist control. Zionist groups have been broken up, with many known Zionists arrested or put in slave labor camps.

Satellite policy toward emigration to Israel has been totally reversed; only a few "unemployable" Jews now are able to get permission to leave for the new Jewish homeland. The Kremlin favored creation of the State of Israel in 1947, when this seemed likely to weaken British power in the Middle East, but is now taking every means to discredit the new nation. Its propaganda seems designed, among other things, to win Arab and Neo-Nazi support for Soviet totalitarianism.

Before 1914, the great majority of East European Jews were ruled by the Russian tsar. His government limited their habitation to a "pale of settlement" in western Russia, denied them civil rights, often instigated pogroms against them to divert attention from the decaying regime at St. Petersburg. But even under the tsars, the more venturesome of harassed East European Jews could get away to the United States or even to Jewish colonies in Palestine.

In the 1930s, Hitler violently exploited anti-Semitism to win power in Germany. During World War II, he directed the extermination of some six million Jews — most of them from Russia and the present Soviet satellites. Stalin has used anti-Semitism for his purposes with even greater cynicism than Hitler, and Prague raises fear that the ultimate results for East European Jewry may be the same.

Manna From The Sea

The news story stated it as a fact that "a young French scientist who staked his life on his belief he was right has proved his point." Dr. Alain Louis Bombard, it went on to explain, is at Barbados after sailing his raft 3,000 miles from the Canary Islands and living for 62 days on raw fish caught en route and plankton scooped up in a net.

He wanted to prove that a man can live indefinitely on food taken from the sea—and the dispatch concluded that he has succeeded.

Maybe he has. Dr. Bombard apparently set out with his primitive craft so that no one could possibly doubt that he had maintained his existence with what he could get from the ocean. If he kept his health, he has at least demonstrated that a human being can exist in this way for 62 days.

That is not "indefinitely" but it is a long time. It appears the young Frenchman must have derived some sustenance from this manna of the sea.

Vilhjalmur Stefansson once spent several months in the Far North, living with Eskimos, and then reported that it is quite possible for anyone to live off that seemingly barren country. He called his book "The Friendly Arctic." It made a great impression at the time.

But a reporter who asked another explorer, Donald MacMillan, about it, got his reply: "Well, when you go you'd better take along a couple of ham sandwiches in your back pocket."

It is quite possible to publicize a theory and give it dramatic support by such an adventure as the one Dr. Bombard has just concluded. The voyage of the Kon-tiki is a spectacular case in point.

These experiments do one thing, though — they prove that man still has the brain and will and body to conquer nature even with the odds against him. The species that produces individuals like Dr. Bombard has plenty of the stuff of survival still in it.

How To Keep Well

Mistreating The Nose

During the last 20 years we have learned to respect the old proboscis. We no longer deluge it with irritating nosedrops or spray the membranes with strong antiseptic solutions. Surgeons even perform fewer operations.

There are many reasons for these sensible changes. One of the most important is our greater knowledge and appreciation of the functions of the membranes lining the nasal passageways and sinus spaces. These coverings normally are blanketed with an invisible coating of mucus secreted from glands just beneath the surface. This secretion slides back into the throat and replaces itself every 10 minutes day and night, but not through gravity alone. It is propelled in the direction of the throat by thousands of hairlike projections (cilia) that sway back and forth.

But what does this have to do with treatment? In the past many nosedrops contained large amounts of menthol, camphor, thymol, or eucalyptol. When these chemicals are employed over a long period of time they irritate the membranes and frequently destroy the cilia. Many of the silver salts do the same, especially when used in higher concentrations. Furthermore, some of the silver is absorbed and after years of usage the metal accumulates to such an extent that the skin turns gray (argyrosis.) At any rate, little hope for the future can be expected after the membrane is damaged. The nasal passageways and sinuses have lost their main line of defense against bacteria and irritants. Infection arises with ease so that colds are more frequent and the nose becomes more sensitive to changes in temperature and dry air.

Drugs such as adrenalin and ephedrine are still being employed, however, because they relieve nasal congestion. These compounds are not harmless and never should be utilized over a long period. A few drops, for example, will overcome congestion temporarily by shrinking the membranes. But an hour or two later these tissues will rebel by producing more congestion than existed originally. This reaction is overcome by placing a few more drops in the nose to repeat the cycle. There is no objection to this plan, especially when a cold is present, because it promotes drainage of purulent material. But by the end of two days, it is advisable to taper off because the congestion that develops as a delayed reaction of the medication may be blamed mistakenly on the infection. Many individuals have gone for months treating this type of reaction and are astonished when cure occurs within 24 hours of stopping all forms of treatment.

The antibiotics and sulfonamides do not interfere with ciliary action but they encourage the development of sensitivity to these drugs. As a result they usually are prescribed in tablet form or hypodermically only when needed. An ordinary nose cold or attack of sinusitis rarely calls for these preparations. More and more physicians are going back to the old fashioned salicylates, phenacetin, codeine, steam inhalations, bed rest, and fruit juices. These remedies are safe and seldom are followed by unpleasant reactions. In this way we can keep the potent products in reserve for more serious infections when a lifesaving drug is necessary.

BOWLEGGED INFANT

Mrs. J. writes: I know that most babies are bowlegged and that the legs straighten out eventually. But my child is 18 months old and still is bowlegged. Have you any suggestions?

REPLY

If this were my child, I would consult an orthopedist, who might, at this stage, be able to correct the condition with special shoes or braces. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on bowlegs and knockknees.

MILK SUPPLEMENTS

T. B. R. writes: I have been advised to add two glasses of milk to my diet daily. Since I do not like milk as such, will I obtain the same effect from taking soups and puddings made with milk?

REPLY

Yes, but why not find out from your physician why he advised the additional milk. If the reason is to increase the intake of calcium and he learns that you do not like milk, he may prescribe tablets or powders containing this mineral.

SWOLLEN GLAND

L. W. writes: If a gland in the neck of an adult has remained swollen for almost a year, should it be removed surgically?

REPLY

This decision should be left to your physician after he has had an opportunity to examine the gland and the surrounding area to determine the cause.

GROWTH OF CANCER

W. T. writes: Has it ever been determined how fast cancer grows?

REPLY

The rate varies. Some cancers grow rapidly and others slowly. Much depends upon the site of the lesion and the type of tumor.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

New Agriculture Head Quizzes Outgoing Secretary; Republicans Bring New Bar To Capitol Hill; Commissioner Rules Against Fingerprinting

WASHINGTON — New Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson recently dropped in to see the man whose shoes he will fill, to get a few tips regarding his new job.

Benson seemed especially interested in housekeeping details.

"How many secretaries do you have?" he asked Charlie Brannan, who steps out as secretary of Agriculture on January 20.

"Two," replied Brannan.

"How much do they get?"

"One gets around $7,000; the other a little less."

"Would it make any difference," asked Benson, "if I had one male secretary instead of the two girls, and paid him $10,000?"

"I suppose not, but don't let the Civil Service Commission catch him near a typewriter," replied Brannan, having in mind the Civil Service ruling that no one punching a keyboard can get much over $7,000.

Benson next wanted to know how many cars and chauffeurs he would inherit from Brannan.

"Two are assigned to the secretary of Agriculture," Brannan replied.

"Can my wife and family use one of them?"

"Only on state duties," replied the outgoing secretary of Agriculture.

"Well, can one of them take my children to school?"

"I suppose so," said Brannan, "but don't let Jess Larson or Drew Pearson catch you." (Larson has charge of allocating cars to government officials.)

Benson then wanted to know if his children, of whom he has six, could drive one of the cars to school themselves, without the chauffeur.

Secretary Brannan did not attempt to advise his successor on this point.

When the last Republican administration was in power, Congress looked out over one of the most potent lobbying offices in Washington—headquarters of Bishop James Cannon, head of the Methodist Board of Temperance and Social Service.

All during the days of Hoover and Coolidge the capital remained dry, as did the rest of the nation. And it was not until the Democrats came into power under Roosevelt that liquor flowed—except illegally—anywhere near the capital.

Under the new Republican administration, however, it is going to be different. This weekend a new club opens up right across from the House of Representatives Office Building, so close that you can throw a stone through one of its windows, or run across for a quick drink between votes.

Instead of looking out on the stern headquarters of Bishop Cannon, Republican congressmen will be able to drop in on a plush lounge, little tables around a bar, and a total of 13 rooms for conferences and relaxation.

This delightfully appointed oasis in the middle of a relatively dry area is called the Capitol Hill Club and is organized, not by the hard-drinking Democrats, but by the dignified Republicans for their exclusive use.

The house itself belonged to former GOP Congressman Charley Dewey of Chicago, though originally it was the home of Peggy O'Neil, the belle of Andrew Jackson's administration. There are several unique, if not amusing, aspects connected with this ritzy new bar right under the noses of congressmen.

Too Much Drinking

In the first place, Congress voted in 1837 to banish the official bar from inside the halls of Congress. It did so because Daniel Webster and to a lesser extent Henry Clay spent most of their time there. Inebriation absorbed more time than legislation.

At about the same time, the ring of saloons around the nation's Capitol building was also dried up, including Pendleton's famous House of Fortune. This was operated by a well-known lobbyist who made it a practice to entice congressmen into this rendezvous and get them so plastered or so compromised that they did his legislative bidding.

In those days there was one saloon to every 90 people in the city. But all bars were abolished from around the Senate and the House and remained banished until the Democrats returned after Herbert Hoover.

Now, however, the most distinguished leaders of the Republican party have kicked in to set up the Capitol Hill Club, including Secretary of State John Foster Dulles who tossed in $500; austere Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks, who also put in $500; Harold Talbott, the new secretary for Air; Postmaster General Summerfield—all with a $500 contribution.

Among the other distinguished contributors and founders of this GOP-oasis-across-the-street-from Congress are Johnny Hanes, the onetime Democrat from North Carolina; ex-Senator Owen Brewster of Maine, a lifelong dry; Senator Frank Carlson of Kansas, Ike's personal leader in the Senate; Clare Boothe Luce, wife of the Time-Life publisher; and Patrick J. Hurley, ex-secretary of War.

No GOP Fingerprints

One of the most interesting aspects of the new GOP liquor spot is that the ABC liquor board which rules on licenses for the District of Columbia has previously denied a license to a lady right next door who wanted to open a package store.

But when GOP leaders applied for an "on-the-premises" drinking license, which is considered less desirable than a package store, their application was immediately granted. However the ABC board demanded that the applicants be fingerprinted, in accordance with District of Columbia law. At this some of the distinguished Republicans objected.

So tolerant Democrat Jiggs Donohue, Commissioner for the District of Columbia, stepped in and overruled the ABC board. The Republicans, he said, would not have to be fingerprinted.

The delightful, obliging Jiggs Donohue is attorney for the biggest liquor dealer in town.

Some of the Democrats are talking about a hearing for Eisenhower's new Attorney General Herb Brownell before they confirm him. They want to question him about Lucky Luciano's sudden release from jail by the Dewey administration. Senator Taft, who hates Brownell, is not discouraging the Democrats . . . Reason for Secretary of Defense Lovett's rush to fill the grand jury action against the oil companies is so it will not embarrass Eisenhower. (Ike received a lot of contributions from the oil companies and might not want to drop the court action).

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Russia, Korea And The UN

The visit of Winston Churchill to this country has, from the first, centered on the development of the Korean War. Churchill is anxious to maintain the status of a limited war, on the grounds that otherwise the United States would be forced to decrease aid to Europe. It is the old struggle over "Europe first." However, Churchill offers no plan to end the high casualty lists of Americans in Korea.

Stalin having admitted that he is involved in the situation in Korea, in his reply to James Reston of "The New York Times," the degree of such involvement requires analysis and some action. At any rate, it ended the fiction of Russian irresponsibility.

In the Soviet world, ranging from the River Elbe in Europe to the Pacific Ocean, there is only one master. Neither the Korean nor the Chinese Communists could have acted independently of Stalin. He supplied the arms, the MIGs, the organization and thousands of so-called advisers. My information is that there are about 100,000 such Russian advisers at the present time in Soviet China, forming a grid throughout the country to control it.

It is characteristic of Soviet Russian diplomacy for Stalin to assume the role of a benign father to all peoples, smiling like a Cheshire cat, while all the time his Asiatic associates are fighting in a real war not only against the United States but against the United Nations of which Russia is a member with a permanent seat on the Security Council.

It is possible by this technique for Stalin to conduct a war, managing every phase of it, while at the same time giving the impression of neutrality. Unfortunately, he has a precedent in President Roosevelt's conduct the first year of World War II, before we entered it, when he assisted Great Britain materially while this country was neutral.

If Stalin wants peace in Korea, he can have it. If he has any proposals to make, he can make them through ordinary channels. He does not need to write letters to reporters for "The New York Times" or any other newspaper. His ambassador in Washington can talk to Dean Acheson or to John Foster Dulles and get the conference for a peace started. He has had 18 months at Panmunjom and elsewhere for this purpose and never did anything about peace.

This is not a matter of obduracy. If one American life can be saved, I am sure that General Eisenhower and John Foster Dulles would do everything in their power to end the killing. General Eisenhower's only son is fighting in Korea; Mr. Dulles' nephew was severely wounded there. Quite apart from any national policy, both men are emotionally involved in peace in Korea.

Our experience with Stalin, since the Teheran Conference in 1943, is that he is dishonest, sleek, tricky, unreliable and even dishonorable. For such heads of states, the usual procedures of diplomacy were created. Face-to-face conferences only lead to misunderstandings and misquotations, particularly as Stalin speaks no English and Eisenhower no Russian.

To show how confusing such conferences can be, let us take the word, democracy. To an American, that word means the control of the government by the people through officials chosen at stated elections; it also often means equality of all individuals before the law. To a Russian, democracy means the socialization of the life of the people, particularly in its economic phases.

When at Teheran and Yalta, Roosevelt and Stalin were talking about democracy, they were not talking about the same thing, although they used the same word. The consequence of this is one of the major tragedies in the history of the human race.

It could have been avoided had the usual procedures of diplomatic intercourse been pursued. When the situation is difficult, it is best for the principals not to meet. We lost the peace in World War I because Woodrow Wilson insisted on being a negotiator; we lost the peace in World War II because Roosevelt insisted upon being both his own secretary of State and his own envoy plenipotentiary. It is like being one's own lawyer—he usually has a fool for a client.

If Winston Churchill is trying to sell another three great men's conference to General Eisenhower, it is to be hoped that the general will have studied the experience of his predecessors and will say "Niet!" to all concerned.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—Whoever in the Department of State wrote that long passage for President Truman's farewell address analyzing the situation between the United States and Russia did a masterful job. It is a pity that Mr. Truman didn't make a separate message out of it so it would have been given consideration on another day entirely apart from his semi-political observations on domestic policies which tended to make his message so long that only sections of it got printed widely.

For it is a thorough and penetrating appraisal of the world situation, even though at times it does gloss over some of the weak spots in American policy abroad.

The most poignant statement in the Truman message is not his reference to atom bombs—for threats like these don't bother the Russians, who believe in the opportunity of conquest through "cold war" rather than "hot war." It is this declaration:

Eisenhower, Dulles Views

"What, then, of the future? The answer, I believe, is this: As we continue to confound Soviet expectations, as our world grows stronger, more united, more attractive to men on both sides of the iron curtain, then inevitably there will come a time of change within the Communist world. We do not know how that change will come about, whether by deliberate decision in the Kremlin, by coup d'etat, by revolution, by defection of satellites, or perhaps by some unforeseen combination of factors such as these."

That's precisely the Eisenhower-Dulles view. Yet, during the recent campaign, when these two men ventured to mention "liberation" as an eventuality, the British and French press, aided and abetted by some distorted interpretations broadcast to the world by Secretary Acheson, denounced "liberation" as something illicit and unfeasible and implied mischievously that it was meant to send Allied troops on such a mission.

Another important passage in the Truman speech was the following paragraph:

"But if the Communist rulers understand they cannot win by war, and if we frustrate their attempts to win by subversion, it is not too much to expect their world to change its character, moderate its aims, become more realistic and less implacable, and recede from the cold war they began."

The effect of this is somewhat weakened by the knowledge that intensive efforts by patriotic Americans to carry on a battle against subversion, at least inside the United States, have been met by obstructive tactics from certain departments of the Truman administration itself. Thus, there is still a tendency to fall for the line that all the anti-subversion crusades are merely "witch hunts" or "hysteria." Indeed, the same Truman message softens what was said about the importance of combatting subvesion as will be noted by the following:

"Already the danger signals have gone up. Already the corrosive process has begun. And every diminution of our tolerance, each demonstration of hysteria—each new restrictive law—is one more sign that we can lose the battle against fear.

"The Communists cannot deprive us of our liberties—fear can. The Communists cannot stamp out our faith in human dignity—fear can. Fear is an enemy within ourselves, and if we do not root it out, it may destroy the very way of life we are so anxious to protect."

Contradiction Is Unfortunate

The foregoing gives a curious picture of alleged interference with liberties in America. It's the same cry that the Communists raise as they seek by technicalities to block trials. It's the same line of thought which causes the Communists to picket the White House with cries of innocence about the convicted atom spies—the Rosenbergs.

No innocent person has been injured in America by the anti-Communist crusade who couldn't rebut idle accusations freely and widely in the press and on the radio. Lots of people who claim they joined organizations innocently cannot be absolved altogether from blame for getting tangled up with Communist organizations. But too long the country has been given to believe that liberties are being taken away right and left and that America is being hurt because Communists are being exposed. That kind of contradiction in the President's message is most unfortunate.

Only this week Nathaniel Weyl, a former Communist, tells in a copyrighted interview in "U. S. News & World Report" that he was a member of a Communist cell with Alger Hiss and Lee Pressman. The latter was for many years general counsel for the CIO and a partner in policy-making of that organization. In 1950 Pressman finally told a congressional committee about his affiliations. Hiss was tried for perjury and convicted on the testimony of Whittaker Chambers, but to this day there are defenders of Hiss who think he was never a Communist but was covering up for somebody when the documents were given to Chambers. Yet Mr. Weyl tells of having met Hiss in from 35 to 40 meetings in a Communist cell made up of persons employed in the Department of Agriculture. Was Alger Hiss exposed by the Truman administration? Mr. Truman called it all a "red herring." The lies told by Hiss were detected by the House Committee on Un-American Activities, and the man who did the exposing—Richard Nixon, of California—bears to this day the enmity of many of those who cry loudest about "witch hunts" and "hysteria."

Inside Washington

WASHINGTON—Informed Washington observers expect President-elect Eisenhower to order quiet exploration, through diplomatic channels, of Soviet Premier Stalin's professed willingness to aid in ending the Korean War.

However, these onlookers do not forsee an early meeting between Ike and Stalin, though they do not rule out the possibility that such a conference might take place sometime in 1953.

The President-elect is reported determined to increase the United Nations striking potential in Korea to a point making it crystal clear to the enemy that an offensive on their part would be met by crushing counter-blows.

Meanwhile, the new United States chief executive is expected to seek some method of putting the truce negotiators back in business without compromising the United Nations stand on the prisoner-of-war issue.

One indication that United States-Soviet relations might improve after the general enters the White House is seen in the re-emergence of Marshal Georgi Zhukov as an important military figure in Russia.

Zhukov, for a time, suffered virtual banishment, presumably because of his wartime friendship with Ike. Some military analysts believe that Stalin may now attempt to use this same friendship to establish liaison with Ike.

Big Push

Military and diplomatic experts say it is no longer true that Britain and France would veto any United States plan for launching an amphibious attack at the "narrow waist" of Korea.

In fact, they say, the British and French would approve the idea, which is one of the more likely proposals to be made by President-elect Eisenhower as a result of his Korean trip.

Here is why the experts insist that Paris and London have changed their stand and are no longer willing to let the truce talks drag on indefinitely rather than risk spreading the war:

The British and the French are convinced that Russia is not ready, willing or able for an all-out war. Therefore, something daring might be tried to pull a United Nations victory out of the Korean stalemate.

Then, the experts declare, France and Britain would be able to get more assistance for their Indo-Chinese and Malayan efforts — which most military strategists agree are part of the same struggle as the Korean war.

Short Session

Republican leaders are planning on a short session of Congress in the interest of efficiency and economy. They have tentatively set as their deadline for adjournment the end of June.

With the exception of Presidential-election years when the rush is on to get through early, Congress has remained in session in recent years long after the June 30 date.

The GOP chiefs hope to demonstrate two things by adjourning within six months. They are: that efficiency in government has returned to Washington, and there will be as little interference as possible in non-federal matters.

Of course, any plans for a speedy session are subject to change if the world situation worsens or there is any major development on the domestic scene requiring more legislative work.

Farm Revolt

Farmers may not respond to Agriculture Secretary Charles Brannan's request for a boost in production of many vital agricultural commodities.

Farmers have been hit badly by rising costs and falling prices, and many of them intend to "wait and see" what the new Republican farm policy will be before they commit themselves.

Democrats insist that the farm goals aren't political, but some farm groups dispute this. They point out that the Agriculture Department wants lower production of some items as well as a boost in others.

With this in mind, the incoming GOP administration will probably take a sharp look at the Democrats' production figures and might even raise them substantially.

Communist Anti-Semitism

Jews are expected to be chief victims of a new wave of satellite purges, touched off by the recent trial and conviction at Prague of Rudolf Slansky and 10 other top Czech Communists of Jewish background. Next in line for Red show trials may be Romania's ex-foreign minister, Ana Pauker, and Poland's ex-deputy premier, Wladyslaw Gomulka.

Ana Pauker has been held in prison more than seven months, Gomulka for two years. How long Hungary's Red premier, Matyos Rakosi, and Poland's top economic planner, Hilary Minc, will remain in power is a matter of doubt. The future of scores of lesser-ranking Jewish Communists in Eastern Europe seems equally precarious.

The Prague trial gave clear evidence that the Kremlin now regards Jewish subjects of the Soviet empire as singularly suspect and readily expendable. The Jewish character of the defendants was repeatedly stressed; they were accused of plotting with a mythical world-wide Jewish counter-revolutionary organization directed from the United States, and Jews in general were blamed for all the worst failures of the Red regime in Czechoslovakia.

A 10-column article in the official organ of the East German Communist party on January 4 carried the heading "Lesson in the Trial of the Slansky Plotters." It charged Paul Merker, a former member of the Politbureau, with trying to find ways for "Zionist agents to enter Germany as spies and diversionists" and called for a thorough purge of the agents of "capitalist Jewry." Gerhart Eisler who lost his place as chief of the East German Information Bureau at the end of last year stands in obvious danger.

President-elect Eisenhower denounced the Prague trial, December 21, as a "mockery of civilized and humanitarian values," and a "particular political act" designed "to unloose a campaign of rabid anti-Semitism through Soviet Russia and the satellite nations of Eastern Europe."

Western sources estimate that a maximum 500,000 Jews now are in satellite Europe: 250,000 in Romania; 150,000 in Hungary; 70-80,000 in Poland; 20,000 in Czechoslovakia; and a few thousand in Bulgaria. During the last four years, Red satellite regimes have been forcing their Jewish citizens into the same sort of straitjacket that binds and isolates the two million Jews remaining in the Soviet Union.

Jewish businesses — large and small — have been expropriated. All specifically Jewish cultural, religious, and welfare organizations have been either liquidated or made subject to full Communist control. Zionist groups have been broken up, with many known Zionists arrested or put in slave labor camps.

Satellite policy toward emigration to Israel has been totally reversed; only a few "unemployable" Jews now are able to get permission to leave for the new Jewish homeland. The Kremlin favored creation of the State of Israel in 1947, when this seemed likely to weaken British power in the Middle East, but is now taking every means to discredit the new nation. Its propaganda seems designed, among other things, to win Arab and Neo-Nazi support for Soviet totalitarianism.

Before 1914, the great majority of East European Jews were ruled by the Russian tsar. His government limited their habitation to a "pale of settlement" in western Russia, denied them civil rights, often instigated pogroms against them to divert attention from the decaying regime at St. Petersburg. But even under the tsars, the more venturesome of harassed East European Jews could get away to the United States or even to Jewish colonies in Palestine.

In the 1930s, Hitler violently exploited anti-Semitism to win power in Germany. During World War II, he directed the extermination of some six million Jews — most of them from Russia and the present Soviet satellites. Stalin has used anti-Semitism for his purposes with even greater cynicism than Hitler, and Prague raises fear that the ultimate results for East European Jewry may be the same.

Manna From The Sea

The news story stated it as a fact that "a young French scientist who staked his life on his belief he was right has proved his point." Dr. Alain Louis Bombard, it went on to explain, is at Barbados after sailing his raft 3,000 miles from the Canary Islands and living for 62 days on raw fish caught en route and plankton scooped up in a net.

He wanted to prove that a man can live indefinitely on food taken from the sea—and the dispatch concluded that he has succeeded.

Maybe he has. Dr. Bombard apparently set out with his primitive craft so that no one could possibly doubt that he had maintained his existence with what he could get from the ocean. If he kept his health, he has at least demonstrated that a human being can exist in this way for 62 days.

That is not "indefinitely" but it is a long time. It appears the young Frenchman must have derived some sustenance from this manna of the sea.

Vilhjalmur Stefansson once spent several months in the Far North, living with Eskimos, and then reported that it is quite possible for anyone to live off that seemingly barren country. He called his book "The Friendly Arctic." It made a great impression at the time.

But a reporter who asked another explorer, Donald MacMillan, about it, got his reply: "Well, when you go you'd better take along a couple of ham sandwiches in your back pocket."

It is quite possible to publicize a theory and give it dramatic support by such an adventure as the one Dr. Bombard has just concluded. The voyage of the Kon-tiki is a spectacular case in point.

These experiments do one thing, though — they prove that man still has the brain and will and body to conquer nature even with the odds against him. The species that produces individuals like Dr. Bombard has plenty of the stuff of survival still in it.

How To Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Mistreating The Nose

During the last 20 years we have learned to respect the old proboscis. We no longer deluge it with irritating nosedrops or spray the membranes with strong antiseptic solutions. Surgeons even perform fewer operations.

There are many reasons for these sensible changes. One of the most important is our greater knowledge and appreciation of the functions of the membranes lining the nasal passageways and sinus spaces. These coverings normally are blanketed with an invisible coating of mucus secreted from glands just beneath the surface. This secretion slides back into the throat and replaces itself every 10 minutes day and night, but not through gravity alone. It is propelled in the direction of the throat by thousands of hairlike projections (cilia) that sway back and forth.

But what does this have to do with treatment? In the past many nosedrops contained large amounts of menthol, camphor, thymol, or eucalyptol. When these chemicals are employed over a long period of time they irritate the membranes and frequently destroy the cilia. Many of the silver salts do the same, especially when used in higher concentrations. Furthermore, some of the silver is absorbed and after years of usage the metal accumulates to such an extent that the skin turns gray (argyrosis.) At any rate, little hope for the future can be expected after the membrane is damaged. The nasal passageways and sinuses have lost their main line of defense against bacteria and irritants. Infection arises with ease so that colds are more frequent and the nose becomes more sensitive to changes in temperature and dry air.

Drugs such as adrenalin and ephedrine are still being employed, however, because they relieve nasal congestion. These compounds are not harmless and never should be utilized over a long period. A few drops, for example, will overcome congestion temporarily by shrinking the membranes. But an hour or two later these tissues will rebel by producing more congestion than existed originally. This reaction is overcome by placing a few more drops in the nose to repeat the cycle. There is no objection to this plan, especially when a cold is present, because it promotes drainage of purulent material. But by the end of two days, it is advisable to taper off because the congestion that develops as a delayed reaction of the medication may be blamed mistakenly on the infection. Many individuals have gone for months treating this type of reaction and are astonished when cure occurs within 24 hours of stopping all forms of treatment.

The antibiotics and sulfonamides do not interfere with ciliary action but they encourage the development of sensitivity to these drugs. As a result they usually are prescribed in tablet form or hypodermically only when needed. An ordinary nose cold or attack of sinusitis rarely calls for these preparations. More and more physicians are going back to the old fashioned salicylates, phenacetin, codeine, steam inhalations, bed rest, and fruit juices. These remedies are safe and seldom are followed by unpleasant reactions. In this way we can keep the potent products in reserve for more serious infections when a lifesaving drug is necessary.

New Agriculture Head Quizzes Outgoing Secretary; Republicans Bring New Bar To Capitol Hill; Commissioner Rules Against Fingerprinting

WASHINGTON — New Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson recently dropped in to see the man whose shoes he will fill, to get a few tips regarding his new job.

Benson seemed especially interested in housekeeping details.

"How many secretaries do you have?" he asked Charlie Brannan, who steps out as secretary of Agriculture on January 20.

"Two," replied Brannan.

"How much do they get?"

"One gets around $7,000; the other a little less."

"Would it make any difference," asked Benson, "if I had one male secretary instead of the two girls, and paid him $10,000?"

"I suppose not, but don't let the Civil Service Commission catch him near a typewriter," replied Brannan, having in mind the Civil Service ruling that no one punching a keyboard can get much over $7,000.

Benson next wanted to know how many cars and chauffeurs he would inherit from Brannan.

"Two are assigned to the secretary of Agriculture," Brannan replied.

"Can my wife and family use one of them?"

"Only on state duties," replied the outgoing secretary of Agriculture.

"Well, can one of them take my children to school?"

"I suppose so," said Brannan, "but don't let Jess Larson or Drew Pearson catch you." (Larson has charge of allocating cars to government officials.)

Benson then wanted to know if his children, of whom he has six, could drive one of the cars to school themselves, without the chauffeur.

Secretary Brannan did not attempt to advise his successor on this point.

When the last Republican administration was in power, Congress looked out over one of the most potent lobbying offices in Washington—headquarters of Bishop James Cannon, head of the Methodist Board of Temperance and Social Service.

All during the days of Hoover and Coolidge the capital remained dry, as did the rest of the nation. And it was not until the Democrats came into power under Roosevelt that liquor flowed—except illegally—anywhere near the capital.

Under the new Republican administration, however, it is going to be different. This weekend a new club opens up right across from the House of Representatives Office Building, so close that you can throw a stone through one of its windows, or run across for a quick drink between votes.

Instead of looking out on the stern headquarters of Bishop Cannon, Republican congressmen will be able to drop in on a plush lounge, little tables around a bar, and a total of 13 rooms for conferences and relaxation.

This delightfully appointed oasis in the middle of a relatively dry area is called the Capitol Hill Club and is organized, not by the hard-drinking Democrats, but by the dignified Republicans for their exclusive use.

The house itself belonged to former GOP Congressman Charley Dewey of Chicago, though originally it was the home of Peggy O'Neil, the belle of Andrew Jackson's administration. There are several unique, if not amusing, aspects connected with this ritzy new bar right under the noses of congressmen.

Too Much Drinking

In the first place, Congress voted in 1837 to banish the official bar from inside the halls of Congress. It did so because Daniel Webster and to a lesser extent Henry Clay spent most of their time there. Inebriation absorbed more time than legislation.

At about the same time, the ring of saloons around the nation's Capitol building was also dried up, including Pendleton's famous House of Fortune. This was operated by a well-known lobbyist who made it a practice to entice congressmen into this rendezvous and get them so plastered or so compromised that they did his legislative bidding.

In those days there was one saloon to every 90 people in the city. But all bars were abolished from around the Senate and the House and remained banished until the Democrats returned after Herbert Hoover.

Now, however, the most distinguished leaders of the Republican party have kicked in to set up the Capitol Hill Club, including Secretary of State John Foster Dulles who tossed in $500; austere Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks, who also put in $500; Harold Talbott, the new secretary for Air; Postmaster General Summerfield—all with a $500 contribution.

Among the other distinguished contributors and founders of this GOP-oasis-across-the-street-from Congress are Johnny Hanes, the onetime Democrat from North Carolina; ex-Senator Owen Brewster of Maine, a lifelong dry; Senator Frank Carlson of Kansas, Ike's personal leader in the Senate; Clare Boothe Luce, wife of the Time-Life publisher; and Patrick J. Hurley, ex-secretary of War.

No GOP Fingerprints

One of the most interesting aspects of the new GOP liquor spot is that the ABC liquor board which rules on licenses for the District of Columbia has previously denied a license to a lady right next door who wanted to open a package store.

But when GOP leaders applied for an "on-the-premises" drinking license, which is considered less desirable than a package store, their application was immediately granted. However the ABC board demanded that the applicants be fingerprinted, in accordance with District of Columbia law. At this some of the distinguished Republicans objected.

So tolerant Democrat Jiggs Donohue, Commissioner for the District of Columbia, stepped in and overruled the ABC board. The Republicans, he said, would not have to be fingerprinted.

The delightful, obliging Jiggs Donohue is attorney for the biggest liquor dealer in town.

Some of the Democrats are talking about a hearing for Eisenhower's new Attorney General Herb Brownell before they confirm him. They want to question him about Lucky Luciano's sudden release from jail by the Dewey administration. Senator Taft, who hates Brownell, is not discouraging the Democrats . . . Reason for Secretary of Defense Lovett's rush to fill the grand jury action against the oil companies is so it will not embarrass Eisenhower. (Ike received a lot of contributions from the oil companies and might not want to drop the court action).

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Russia, Korea And The UN

The visit of Winston Churchill to this country has, from the first, centered on the development of the Korean War. Churchill is anxious to maintain the status of a limited war, on the grounds that otherwise the United States would be forced to decrease aid to Europe. It is the old struggle over "Europe first." However, Churchill offers no plan to end the high casualty lists of Americans in Korea.

Stalin having admitted that he is involved in the situation in Korea, in his reply to James Reston of "The New York Times," the degree of such involvement requires analysis and some action. At any rate, it ended the fiction of Russian irresponsibility.

In the Soviet world, ranging from the River Elbe in Europe to the Pacific Ocean, there is only one master. Neither the Korean nor the Chinese Communists could have acted independently of Stalin. He supplied the arms, the MIGs, the organization and thousands of so-called advisers. My information is that there are about 100,000 such Russian advisers at the present time in Soviet China, forming a grid throughout the country to control it.

It is characteristic of Soviet Russian diplomacy for Stalin to assume the role of a benign father to all peoples, smiling like a Cheshire cat, while all the time his Asiatic associates are fighting in a real war not only against the United States but against the United Nations of which Russia is a member with a permanent seat on the Security Council.

It is possible by this technique for Stalin to conduct a war, managing every phase of it, while at the same time giving the impression of neutrality. Unfortunately, he has a precedent in President Roosevelt's conduct the first year of World War II, before we entered it, when he assisted Great Britain materially while this country was neutral.

If Stalin wants peace in Korea, he can have it. If he has any proposals to make, he can make them through ordinary channels. He does not need to write letters to reporters for "The New York Times" or any other newspaper. His ambassador in Washington can talk to Dean Acheson or to John Foster Dulles and get the conference for a peace started. He has had 18 months at Panmunjom and elsewhere for this purpose and never did anything about peace.

This is not a matter of obduracy. If one American life can be saved, I am sure that General Eisenhower and John Foster Dulles would do everything in their power to end the killing. General Eisenhower's only son is fighting in Korea; Mr. Dulles' nephew was severely wounded there. Quite apart from any national policy, both men are emotionally involved in peace in Korea.

Our experience with Stalin, since the Teheran Conference in 1943, is that he is dishonest, sleek, tricky, unreliable and even dishonorable. For such heads of states, the usual procedures of diplomacy were created. Face-to-face conferences only lead to misunderstandings and misquotations, particularly as Stalin speaks no English and Eisenhower no Russian.

To show how confusing such conferences can be, let us take the word, democracy. To an American, that word means the control of the government by the people through officials chosen at stated elections; it also often means equality of all individuals before the law. To a Russian, democracy means the socialization of the life of the people, particularly in its economic phases.

When at Teheran and Yalta, Roosevelt and Stalin were talking about democracy, they were not talking about the same thing, although they used the same word. The consequence of this is one of the major tragedies in the history of the human race.

It could have been avoided had the usual procedures of diplomatic intercourse been pursued. When the situation is difficult, it is best for the principals not to meet. We lost the peace in World War I because Woodrow Wilson insisted on being a negotiator; we lost the peace in World War II because Roosevelt insisted upon being both his own secretary of State and his own envoy plenipotentiary. It is like being one's own lawyer—he usually has a fool for a client.

If Winston Churchill is trying to sell another three great men's conference to General Eisenhower, it is to be hoped that the general will have studied the experience of his predecessors and will say "Niet!" to all concerned.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—Whoever in the Department of State wrote that long passage for President Truman's farewell address analyzing the situation between the United States and Russia did a masterful job. It is a pity that Mr. Truman didn't make a separate message out of it so it would have been given consideration on another day entirely apart from his semi-political observations on domestic policies which tended to make his message so long that only sections of it got printed widely.

For it is a thorough and penetrating appraisal of the world situation, even though at times it does gloss over some of the weak spots in American policy abroad.

The most poignant statement in the Truman message is not his reference to atom bombs—for threats like these don't bother the Russians, who believe in the opportunity of conquest through "cold war" rather than "hot war." It is this declaration:

Eisenhower, Dulles Views

"What, then, of the future? The answer, I believe, is this: As we continue to confound Soviet expectations, as our world grows stronger, more united, more attractive to men on both sides of the iron curtain, then inevitably there will come a time of change within the Communist world. We do not know how that change will come about, whether by deliberate decision in the Kremlin, by coup d'etat, by revolution, by defection of satellites, or perhaps by some unforeseen combination of factors such as these."

That's precisely the Eisenhower-Dulles view. Yet, during the recent campaign, when these two men ventured to mention "liberation" as an eventuality, the British and French press, aided and abetted by some distorted interpretations broadcast to the world by Secretary Acheson, denounced "liberation" as something illicit and unfeasible and implied mischievously that it was meant to send Allied troops on such a mission.

Another important passage in the Truman speech was the following paragraph:

"But if the Communist rulers understand they cannot win by war, and if we frustrate their attempts to win by subversion, it is not too much to expect their world to change its character, moderate its aims, become more realistic and less implacable, and recede from the cold war they began."

The effect of this is somewhat weakened by the knowledge that intensive efforts by patriotic Americans to carry on a battle against subversion, at least inside the United States, have been met by obstructive tactics from certain departments of the Truman administration itself. Thus, there is still a tendency to fall for the line that all the anti-subversion crusades are merely "witch hunts" or "hysteria." Indeed, the same Truman message softens what was said about the importance of combatting subvesion as will be noted by the following:

"Already the danger signals have gone up. Already the corrosive process has begun. And every diminution of our tolerance, each demonstration of hysteria—each new restrictive law—is one more sign that we can lose the battle against fear.

"The Communists cannot deprive us of our liberties—fear can. The Communists cannot stamp out our faith in human dignity—fear can. Fear is an enemy within ourselves, and if we do not root it out, it may destroy the very way of life we are so anxious to protect."

Contradiction Is Unfortunate

The foregoing gives a curious picture of alleged interference with liberties in America. It's the same cry that the Communists raise as they seek by technicalities to block trials. It's the same line of thought which causes the Communists to picket the White House with cries of innocence about the convicted atom spies—the Rosenbergs.

No innocent person has been injured in America by the anti-Communist crusade who couldn't rebut idle accusations freely and widely in the press and on the radio. Lots of people who claim they joined organizations innocently cannot be absolved altogether from blame for getting tangled up with Communist organizations. But too long the country has been given to believe that liberties are being taken away right and left and that America is being hurt because Communists are being exposed. That kind of contradiction in the President's message is most unfortunate.

Only this week Nathaniel Weyl, a former Communist, tells in a copyrighted interview in "U. S. News & World Report" that he was a member of a Communist cell with Alger Hiss and Lee Pressman. The latter was for many years general counsel for the CIO and a partner in policy-making of that organization. In 1950 Pressman finally told a congressional committee about his affiliations. Hiss was tried for perjury and convicted on the testimony of Whittaker Chambers, but to this day there are defenders of Hiss who think he was never a Communist but was covering up for somebody when the documents were given to Chambers. Yet Mr. Weyl tells of having met Hiss in from 35 to 40 meetings in a Communist cell made up of persons employed in the Department of Agriculture. Was Alger Hiss exposed by the Truman administration? Mr. Truman called it all a "red herring." The lies told by Hiss were detected by the House Committee on Un-American Activities, and the man who did the exposing—Richard Nixon, of California—bears to this day the enmity of many of those who cry loudest about "witch hunts" and "hysteria."

Inside Washington

WASHINGTON—Informed Washington observers expect President-elect Eisenhower to order quiet exploration, through diplomatic channels, of Soviet Premier Stalin's professed willingness to aid in ending the Korean War.

However, these onlookers do not forsee an early meeting between Ike and Stalin, though they do not rule out the possibility that such a conference might take place sometime in 1953.

The President-elect is reported determined to increase the United Nations striking potential in Korea to a point making it crystal clear to the enemy that an offensive on their part would be met by crushing counter-blows.

Meanwhile, the new United States chief executive is expected to seek some method of putting the truce negotiators back in business without compromising the United Nations stand on the prisoner-of-war issue.

One indication that United States-Soviet relations might improve after the general enters the White House is seen in the re-emergence of Marshal Georgi Zhukov as an important military figure in Russia.

Zhukov, for a time, suffered virtual banishment, presumably because of his wartime friendship with Ike. Some military analysts believe that Stalin may now attempt to use this same friendship to establish liaison with Ike.

Big Push

Military and diplomatic experts say it is no longer true that Britain and France would veto any United States plan for launching an amphibious attack at the "narrow waist" of Korea.

In fact, they say, the British and French would approve the idea, which is one of the more likely proposals to be made by President-elect Eisenhower as a result of his Korean trip.

Here is why the experts insist that Paris and London have changed their stand and are no longer willing to let the truce talks drag on indefinitely rather than risk spreading the war:

The British and the French are convinced that Russia is not ready, willing or able for an all-out war. Therefore, something daring might be tried to pull a United Nations victory out of the Korean stalemate.

Then, the experts declare, France and Britain would be able to get more assistance for their Indo-Chinese and Malayan efforts — which most military strategists agree are part of the same struggle as the Korean war.

Short Session

Republican leaders are planning on a short session of Congress in the interest of efficiency and economy. They have tentatively set as their deadline for adjournment the end of June.

With the exception of Presidential-election years when the rush is on to get through early, Congress has remained in session in recent years long after the June 30 date.

The GOP chiefs hope to demonstrate two things by adjourning within six months. They are: that efficiency in government has returned to Washington, and there will be as little interference as possible in non-federal matters.

Of course, any plans for a speedy session are subject to change if the world situation worsens or there is any major development on the domestic scene requiring more legislative work.

Farm Revolt

Farmers may not respond to Agriculture Secretary Charles Brannan's request for a boost in production of many vital agricultural commodities.

Farmers have been hit badly by rising costs and falling prices, and many of them intend to "wait and see" what the new Republican farm policy will be before they commit themselves.

Democrats insist that the farm goals aren't political, but some farm groups dispute this. They point out that the Agriculture Department wants lower production of some items as well as a boost in others.

With this in mind, the incoming GOP administration will probably take a sharp look at the Democrats' production figures and might even raise them substantially.

Telephone Line Damage In Garrett

STORM STIFLES PHONE SERVICE—These pictures show some of the typical scenes in Garrett County yesterday as C&P Telephone Company repairmen from all over Maryland converged on the western-most county in an effort to restore telephone service. About 1,500 homes around Garrett County were without service at one time as over 100 poles were knocked down by the heavy ice. Some 200 men worked around the clock in trying to get service back to normal. Last night three Garrett County communities still were without phone service.

Potomac State Hosts Roanoke Quint Tonight

Idle since December 18 when they were upset by the Frostburg Teachers, the floormen of Potomac State College, Keyser, return to action tonight to play National Business College, Roanoke, Va., on the Keyser floor at 8 o'clock.

Alexander Sends $1 To Pay Traffic Penalty For Nurse

A Lonaconing man working in Baltimore has forwarded $1 through the Cumberland News to pay a parking fine levied against a State Health Department nurse here Tuesday.

In a letter to the city editor of the Cumberland News, Irvin "Irish" Alexander enclosed a dollar bill and asked that the money be forwarded to Miss Margaret Neumann, Baltimore Pike, who was fined that sum for illegal parking.

When informed of Alexander's gesture, Miss Neumann asked for details and was read the letter from the Lonaconing man.

The nurse said she was glad someone as far away as Baltimore expressed sympathy in the parking problem of which she was a victim.

She said she appreciated the gesture but that she would give the money to the Allegany County League for Crippled Children.

In his letter, Alexander said he believes Police Commissioner John J. Long should instruct police officers to use more caution in such matters.

He added he agreed with Finance Commissioner William V. Keegan that the city should buy or build a parking lot.

"These $1 fines on official cars," he said, "sounds like a kid's game."

dividual or collective opinions with reference to school matters and do enjoy a very friendly association with the board of Education.

". . . We are interested in good schools throughout Allegany County and can assure you that we will make every effort we can within our legal authority to see that some relief is granted for the Westernport school situation."

Opposes Legislation

Then, Lemmert asserted his opposition to mandatory legislation such as that which resulted in the construction of new schools at Mt. Savage, Lonaconing and Ellerslie. At the time the first bill was introduced in 1941, it called for an $800,000 bond issue to finance all three jobs. By 1947, another $2,000,000 bond issue was added. Now, if it were not for $927,000 in state aid, the three projects could not even be completed.

Whitworth expressed partial agreement with a request from Getty that only an enabling act be introduced in the legislature and not a mandatory bill. Under an enabling act, the county might get state or federal funds on a matching basis to finance school construction but would not be forced to build. Whitworth said he would not be opposed to such an act so long as he was assured that any construction would be earmarked specifically for Westernport.

A citizens committee will meet later with the County Commissioners in an attempt to work out details on the plan.

In his remarks to the commissioners, Kooken cited a number of facts concerning the Bruce High School needs. He stressed that when the school was built in 1922 there was no consolidated school program in the county and the school served only Westernport and Luke. Now 53 per cent of the 617 pupils come from outside the corporate limits of the two towns.

Shortages Cited

One third floor classroom originally was only a storage room and lacks adequate fire escapes, he asserted. The heating system is not sufficient to serve the building which was remodeled and enlarged in 1939. Commercial and industrial arts programs are both inferior despite the fact that the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company offers a ready source of employment for such graduates. The chemistry teacher performs experiments but laboratory facilities for pupils are lacking. There is no cafeteria as such and the pupils must take their lunch trays back to their classrooms in order to eat. The gymnasium is inadequate and there is absolutely no art program in the school.

Kooken said the Hammond Street School and Luke School also are inadequate to serve the needs.

Among those in the delegation besides Whitworth and Kooken were W. Ardell Haines, Bruce High School principal; Mayor Okey Michael and the commissioners of Luke, officials of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, doctors, dentists, business men laborers and housewives.

Rent Board Holds Routine Session

The rent stabilization board held a regular meeting at the local rent control office in room 201 Post Office building Thursday night. David Kauffman, chairman, presided with Ralph Beard and Edwin Hoffman, board members and Miss Elizabeth Lippold, office secretary, present. G. Edwin Robertson, Baltimore, board liason officer, also attended.

Landlords are urged to file applications at the office before rents are increased for any reason, board members indicated.

The office is open daily except Saturday and Sunday from 9 a. m. until 5 p. m.

Scholarship Auditions To Be Held This Spring

Three kinds of awards are given by the Maryland Federation of Music Clubs for Juniors, Student Musicians and Artists Class, in the Edgar Stillman Kelly Scholarship auditions Mrs. Henry C. Swearingen, member of the state committee, said last night.

The eight Junior Music Clubs of Cumberland and Frostburg, with those throughout the nation, contribute their pennies monthly to the Edgar Stillman Kelley Scholarship fund. Auditions for this Junior Scholarship are held annually in different sections of the states.

Thirteen year old Janet Goodman, Spokane, received the 1952 National Audition, held on the West Coast. She receives $250 a year for four years.

The 1953 Spring audition will be held in the Northeast region and the 1954 Stillman Kelley Scholarship audition will be in this area, Mrs. Swearingen reports.

The entrant must not have reached his or her 17th birthday by March 1, 1954.

In the next age bracket, 17 to 25 years, the Student Musician auditions will be held in March 1953. In this group entrants for piano, violin, celo, organ and voice may enter.

The Young Artists group is limited to ages 20 to 30 years and both talent and program experience are required. These auditions will be held in Baltimore in March 1953. The choice of a cash award of $1,000 or a New York Town Hall recital is given the annual winner.

These awards have launched so many young musicians upon great careers, many to Metropolitan opera fame and have brought honor to the National Federation of Music Clubs, which made these careers possible, Mrs. Swearingen said.

Many Clubs Favoring Stamp Marking Ft. Cumberland

A great deal of enthusiasm for having a stamp commemorating the 200th anniversary of the naming of Fort Cumberland, is being found among the patrons of the Cumberland Free Public Library, especially the fifth and sixth grade students, Miss Mary G. Walsh said last night.

The library staff, under the chairmanship of Miss Walsh, is sponsoring a petition to the Federal government to issue the stamp commemorating the 200th anniversary of the naming of Fort Cumberland in 1755, by General Braddock.

Miss Walsh pointed out that the original fort here was Fort Mt. Pleasant and was at the foot of the hill by Wills Creek, in 1754. Upon the orders of the Governors of Virginia and Maryland that it should be moved to the top of the hill, as a precaution against Indian attack, the fort was built on the hill and after January 1755 was named Fort Cumberland.

Historical records, both here and in the British Museum, fail to give the exact date of the naming of Fort Cumberland. So the library staff has written to the Virginia State Library asking a check be made there of records.

Among the clubs asked to go on record favoring the stamp are the Cresap Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, the Preservation of Historical Records group of the Woman's Civic Club; the Cumberland Branch of the American Association of University Women; and smaller groups interested in historical data.

About the first of March, Miss Walsh said, a petition will be placed on the desk in the library and patrons will be asked to sign it. Individuals also will be asked to write to their senators and congressmen.

Lt. John Riley, Air Force, stationed in Frankfort, Germany, is spending a 10 day furlough with his father, J. H. Riley, 742 Gephart Drive.

Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Michael, McMullen Highway, have returned from a vacation in Mexico City.

The committee of arrangements consists of Mrs. Palmer, George R. Hughes, Jr., and J. Glenn Beall, Jr.

Beauticians To Install

Mrs. Esther Smith and her staff of officers will be installed at the meeting of the Allegany County Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association, Monday night.

Other officers are Mrs. Catherine Welton, vice president; Mrs. Virginia Sunderlin, secretary; Miss Edith Crabtree, treasurer and Mrs. Grace Youngblood, corresponding secretary.

The meeting is being held at 7:30 in Central YMCA and at 8:30 there will be a demonstration on cold waving, by the United Barber and Beauty Supply of Baltimore. All beauticians are invited to attend.

Club Has Yule Party

The Cresap Homemakers Club was entertained at the home of Mrs. David Scollick, Cumberland, recently, marking its Yuletide celebration. The house was decorated in keeping with the season.

After a brief business session with Mrs. Arthur Long presiding, the time was spent in recreation. Mrs. Helen Wendt sang several numbers. Games were played, conducted by Mrs. A. J. Burrell. Gifts were exchanged and refreshments served.

Visitors present were Mrs. Clarence Ashby, Mrs. Harold Maphis, Mrs. Earl Royce and Mrs. David Scollick, Jr.

EVENING DISPATCH — January 10, 195

THIEF ROBS STORE WHILE PROPRIETOR'S BACK TURNED

"Automatic candid camera snaps thief in action. Police have clues to identity."

"Small-time crook playing for peanuts," someone says, tossing aside the newspaper. But small-time crooks often become big-timers. And even "peanuts" are important.

Too many times somebody's back has been turned while this young fellow (and others like him) have been growing up. Too many times somebody has overlooked petty offenses, remarking, "Boys will be boys." Too many times these little misdemeanors have mushroomed into serious crimes.

A young person who learns through home and church "to love the Lord thy God . . . and thy neighbor . . ." will not even want to commit such deeds against his neighbors. If his mind and heart are filled with the goodness of God, he will want to show that goodness and kindness to others.

Don't turn your back on youngsters. But turn your feet and heart toward the Church, and take these young folk with you.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

THIEF ROBS STORE WHILE PROPRIETOR'S BACK TURNED

"Automatic candid camera snaps thief in action. Police have clues to identity."

"Small-time crook playing for peanuts," someone says, tossing aside the newspaper. But small-time crooks often become big-timers. And even "peanuts" are important.

Too many times somebody's back has been turned while this young fellow (and others like him) have been growing up. Too many times somebody has overlooked petty offenses, remarking, "Boys will be boys." Too many times these little misdemeanors have mushroomed into serious crimes.

A young person who learns through home and church "to love the Lord thy God . . . and thy neighbor . . ." will not even want to commit such deeds against his neighbors. If his mind and heart are filled with the goodness of God, he will want to show that goodness and kindness to others.

Don't turn your back on youngsters. But turn your feet and heart toward the Church, and take these young folk with you.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

local insurance and travel agency, sends to us an interesting folder on Japanese Travel News that tells of the good game hunting in the Land of the Rising Sun which, no doubt, many of our GIs are enjoying.

Hunting fees are fixed by the Japanese Government and the Prefectural Governments and many vary from season to season. For the 1952-53 season the fee is 2,500 yen which is equivalent to $7 in United States currency.

The brown bear, striped squirrel, Formosan squirrel, wild hare, wild cat and wild dog may be hunted from Nov. 1 to Feb. 28. The bird hunting season opened Oct. 1 and ends January 31.

In Hokkaido the 2½ months' season on badger, mink, fox, male deer, raccoon dog, Martin and squirrel ends January 31.

And there is no bag limit on most of the game.

To enter a preserve, the hunter must pay a fee to the keeper, usually a town or village office, the usual rate being about 500 yen ($1.40) per person per day.

Japanese Law provides that a fine not to exceed 50,000 yen ($140) or imprisonment not to exceed one year may be imposed for violation of any of the rules.

The law also requires that individuals who were issued hunting licenses submit a "Game Report" to the Prefectual Governor who issued the hunting license, not later than 30 days after the hunting season closes, or prior to the individual's departure from Japan, whichever is sooner.

Those racing dates given Cumberland (August 4-15) don't look too good after all.

Wheeling runs from July 18 to September 26 and Charles Town's meeting starts July 3 and ends August 8.

Looks like we've been sandwiched by our next door neighbors!

Pittsburgh's Pirates have $421,000 in the till on advance season season ticket sales for 1953 and expect to reach the $600,000 figure for the fifth straight year. And all this despite two eighth-place finishes, a seventh and a sixth in four seasons.

The Buccos took a loss of about $700,000 last year. Attendance was off 300,000 at home and 200,000 on the road.

St. Joseph's High of Martinsburg which meets LaSalle in the West Virginia town a week from tomorrow has gotten away to a good start and has lost only one of five games, that to undefeated Harpers Ferry (5-0) which knocked off Martinsburg High's Bulldogs the other night, 51-50.

West Virginia High School's Athletic Association really believes in heaving the book at violators of the rules.

It cracked down on Sisterville High the other day, disqualifying five players for the remainder of the season.

The reason: They played in a holiday game at the YMCA.

two years if such a proposal is approved.

The play-off system was inaugurated during the depression days to aid the clubs financially, especially the four top teams.

It has no bearing on the champship as the team that finishes in first place at the close of the regular season is recognized as the pennant winner. That's the way it works throughout the minors.

The Sporting News also favors shortening of the major league baseball season to avoid a clash with college and pro football.

As far back as we can remember the World Series always has been staged in October. Football used to be an October and November sport. Now the pros start in August and finish in December and the colleges get under way in September and play as late as New Year's Day.

Why worry about shortening the baseball season when football has been extended from two to four months.

Carl Hartman, former Ridgeley High ace, meshed 12 field goals and 28 points the other night when Alderson-Broaddus College beat Fairmont State, 79-66. Jack Greynolds, his teammate, racked up 34 tallies.

Pioneers Earn 63-58 Decision At Keyser Gym

Brown Racks Up 26 Tallies In Romney's 6th P.V.C. Victory

KEYSER, Jan. 9—Romney High School's high-flying Pioneers rallied in the final period tonight to defeat Keyser, 63-58, thereby increasing its winning streak to six games in the Potomac Valley Conference. The loss was the third in five starts for Coach John Shelton's defending champions.

Tonight's triumph gave Coach Allen Swick's Hampshire countians an 8-0 record for the season.

Keyser led at the quarter, 10-9, also at the half, 27-24, but the visitors forged to the front at 49-44 in the third period. After the score had been knotted several times in the final stanza the Pioneers pulled the game out of the fire.

Charley Brown, Romney center, headed the scoring procession with 25 tallies while Keith Wolford was runner-up with 18 tallies. Brown scored nine field goals to match the shooting performances of Gene Becker, Keyser forward, who paced the Golden Tornado with 16 markers. Rich Morris scored 13 and Tom Kady had 11.

Keyser lost three players on personal fouls—Roy Davidson in the third period and Joe Wright and Kady in the final stanza.

Romney remained tied with Moorefield for the P. V. C. lead, each team having won six games. Lineups:

Local Quints Capture Easy WMI Openers

Sentinels Defeat Central, 42-38; AHS Tops Braves 71-34

Both Allegany and Fort Hill scored opening game victories last night in the Western Maryland Interscholastic League with the Alco quint easily downing Barton 71-34 at Campobello while the Sentinels rallied to come from behind against Central at Fort Hill, 42-38.

In the only other league encounter Bruce's game with Beall at Frostburg was postponed because of a light and power failure.

Fort Hill's George McGregor once more came to the fore by scoring three quick baskets in the final three minutes of play to break a 34-34 tie as Coach Bobby Cavanaugh's Sentinels tripped Johnny Meyers' Central Tigers.

Central took a 12-7 lead in the first quarter and was on the long end of a 20-12 count at intermission. The Sentinels rallied to knot the score at 26-all at the close of the third period and then won out in the nip and tuck final stanza.

McGregor was the top bomber for the Cavanaughmen with 17 points while Ed Thompson tallied 16 for Central.

At Campobello Coach Walter L. Bowers' Alleganians began defense of their WMI crown by blasting the hapless Barton Braves beneath a 29-goal attack.

A 32-point splurge in the third quarter turned a fairly close game into a rout as nine of the 13 players used by Bowers joined the scoring parade.

Dick Rank paced the Campers with 13 points while Bob Kirk was the Barton scoring ace with 19 tallies. The Lineups:

Swisher Turns Author
Would Drop Play-offs
Japan's Hunting Laws
Fairgo Is Sandwiched

By C. V. BURNS

Arnet Swisher, member of the faculty of Keyser High School, and one-time Elk Garden High School basketball mentor, has turned author.

"Scent Trail Bucks" is his story which appears in the December issue of "American Woodsman."

The story, illustrated by three good photos, concerns a deer hunting expedition by Swisher and his companions into Beaver Creek, Tucker County, during the three-day hunters' choice season in the fall of 1951.

This bunch of amateurs in deer hunters' paradise bagged five bucks—three of which fell on the scent trail.

"Scent trail bucks? Horseradish, some oldtimers will say," Swisher writes. "What does he know about hunting? But the facts are there.

"Three bucks were taken on the scent trail by dragging little Dewey Dick's buck to camp. Maybe there were just too many deer. Maybe they just tried to run over us. Your guess is as good as mine."

The largest of the five had eight points and dressed out at 150 pounds.

The Sporting News, known as "Baseball's Bible," favors abolishment of the Shaughnessy play-off system in the minors.

Fleming Leads In Bing Crosby Golf With 66

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif., Jan. 9 (AP) — Square-jawed Pete Fleming, a one time pro boxer who turned to belting golf balls, scored a decision over a classy field today with a six-under-par 66 in the first round of the $10,000 Bing Crosby pro-amateur golf tournament.

Fleming, who had 78 fights as a welterweight prior to his professional golf career, turned in a masterful job in the initial 18 of the 54-hole event sponsored annually by crooner Crosby.

The pace-setter, playing on the par 35-37—72 Monterey Peninsula Country Club course, carded a solid 34-32.

Breathing down the leader's collar were three tough and tested campaigners, former U. S. Open Champion Lloyd Mangrum, Jack Burke Jr., and Jim Ferrier. All posted 67s.

As You Were

(This is the 46th in a series of sketches with pictures of well known sport personalities of the past from the album of the Cumberland News Sports Editor. See if you can identify them by their photo.)

Meet the physical director and one of the basketball stars of the local Central YMCA of 1906. That's when the "Y" was located on Baltimore street on the site of the present Peskin building and William L. Radcliffe was general secretary.

This handsome redhead was among Cumberland's earliest cage stars as the sport did not take a hold here until about 1900, nine years after it was originated by Dr. James A. Naismith, instructor at the Springfield YMCA in Massachusetts. Incidentally, the hoops used in Dr. Naismith's day were the cone-shaped peach baskets in general merchandising use in that era. Thus the name of the game. The original ball was a soccer ball. The game was first played with seven on a side, then nine, then eight. It was five, however, when this fellow played. Goals which now count two points were three points when he started. Each team called upon its specialist for foul shooting. Since about 1924 the man fouled must make the throw.

In his playing days the YMCA quint played Princeton and the New York Athletic Club quints and the best pro team at that time was the Buffalo (N.Y.) Germans.

A native of Cumberland, this athlete played on one of Cumberland's first school football teams at the Allegany County Academy.

He and Secretary Radcliffe left Cumberland for Richmond, Va., where they entered the entertainment field with the financial backing of one of the Hershey Brothers of the Hershey Chocolate Company. For three years this fellow managed Creatore's Band with headquarters in Washington, D. C. For many years he has been in the advertising business here. He's still connected with sports. What's his name?

He's L. E. "Red" Van Sant, Cumberland's "Grand Old Man of Tennis." He's been promoting city and county tennis tournaments since 1928 and in recent years has developed badminton in Cumberland. Now in his seventies, "Red" did not start playing tennis until he was 40 and is still active on the courts.

Bruce, Beall Tilt Reset For Tonight After Power Fails

Beall and Bruce, Allegany County's only undefeated basketball teams, failed to clash as scheduled last night at Frostburg due to a power failure and the contest has been rescheduled for tonight at 8 o'clock on the Beall High court.

Transformer trouble caused the lights to go out four minutes before the preliminary game was concluded with a packed house in attendance.

Both Bruce and Beall own 6-0 records.

Tonight's game will be their first of the season in the W.M.I. League.

LaSalle Tops Ridgeley By 28-21 Score

Hawks Are Held To Two Goals In First Two Periods

LaSalle High's Explorers held Ridgeley High to two field goals in the first half and went on to capture a low-scoring duel, 28-21, from the Blackhawks before a slim crowd at SS. Peter and Paul gym last night.

The Explorers themselves scored only 11 goals in one of the smallest output of points in a basketball game in this district in some time. Ridgeley tallied eight times from the field.

Ridgeley failed to hit from the floor until four minutes had passed in the second stanza when Fritz Showers connected. Bob Bradley followed seconds later with another fielder to account for both Ridgeley twin - pointers in the first two periods.

LaSalle hopped off in front on Marty Mullaney's bucket and were never headed, leading 7-2, 14-7 and 22-14 at the quarters.

Mullaney was top scorer for the evening with eight points while Showers had seven for Ridgeley.

Castellani Wins Nod Over Jones

NEW YORK, Jan. 9 (INS) Rocky Castellani, fifth-ranking middleweight title contender, outpointed Ralph (Tiger) Jones tonight in a Madison Square Garden ten-round split decision that found ring officials poles apart in their scoring.

In a bout in which Jones was the aggressor if not the more effective puncher, Judge Charley Shortell saw it 6-3-1 and Referee Al Berl 7-2-1 for Castellani. However, Judge Bill Healey gave an equally convincing edge to Jones, 7-2-1.

Castellani weighed 159¾ to Jones' 154¼. There were no knockdowns, although Jones twice slipped to his knees.

NCAA Approves TV Controls Changes In Cage Tournament

TOPS SCORERS — George McGregor, Fort Hill forward, holds a comfortable lead in the city scoring race with 137 points to his credit in seven games, an average of 19.6 points per contest. He has meshed 53 field goals and 31-59 fouls.

Vote 172-13 To Keep Video Restrictions

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (AP)—The National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) today overwhelmingly adopted a program of strict controls for televising football next season.

The vote was 172 to 13.

The outcome meant that football television fans will see approximately the same number of college games next fall as they did last season when one game a week was telecast nationally.

Approves Report

The action merely approved a report made by the NCAA-TV committee. This committee automatically goes out of office with the end of this meeting. It will be replaced by a new committee, which probably will be appointed around Feb. 1.

The new committee will have the job of working out details for 1953 telecasts, but will be under a mandate from the convention to follow a program of controlled television.

Before that, the delegates voted approval of a new plan to conduct the NCAA basketball tournament, ruling out teams that compete in any other post-season tourney.

They also accepted a report from a special committee on post-season athletic events which recommended some rather severe restrictions on football bowl activities and heard a report from Michigan's Fritz Crisler, representing the National Football Rules Committee, which indicated that no attempt to wipe out platoon football is in the works.

Changes Are Planned

The change in the basketball tournament will go into effect next March. Instead of a 16-team affair, the NCAA tourney will include 23 teams, including 14 conference champions which qualify automatically.

The NCAA playoffs will begin March 9 with sectional eliminations. Four regional tournaments will be played March 13-14 and the finals March 17-18. The dates are a week earlier than they were last year, in line with efforts to shorten seasons.

Postage Stamp Is Proposed To Honor Babe Ruth

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (INS)—Sen. Butler (R) Md., proposed today that a special postage stamp be issued honoring the late George Herman (Babe) Ruth.

The senator, in a bill identical with one he introduced late last session, described Ruth as "a baseball immortal who became a hero to the entire nation when he established a home-run record which has never been equalled."

Butler suggested the first issue of the special stamp, if approved, be placed on sale at Baltimore.

Pioneers Earn 63-58 Decision At Keyser Gym

Brown Racks Up 26 Tallies In Romney's 6th P.V.C. Victory

KEYSER, Jan. 9—Romney High School's high-flying Pioneers rallied in the final period tonight to defeat Keyser, 63-58, thereby increasing its winning streak to six games in the Potomac Valley Conference. The loss was the third in five starts for Coach John Shelton's defending champions.

Tonight's triumph gave Coach Allen Swick's Hampshire countians an 8-0 record for the season.

Keyser led at the quarter, 10-9, also at the half, 27-24, but the visitors forged to the front at 49-44 in the third period. After the score had been knotted several times in the final stanza the Pioneers pulled the game out of the fire.

Charley Brown, Romney center, headed the scoring procession with 25 tallies while Keith Wolford was runner-up with 18 tallies. Brown scored nine field goals to match the shooting performances of Gene Becker, Keyser forward, who paced the Golden Tornado with 16 markers. Rich Morris scored 13 and Tom Kady had 11.

Keyser lost three players on personal fouls—Roy Davidson in the third period and Joe Wright and Kady in the final stanza.

Romney remained tied with Moorefield for the P. V. C. lead, each team having won six games. Lineups:

Sentinels Defeat Central, 42-38; AHS Tops Braves 71-34

Both Allegany and Fort Hill scored opening game victories last night in the Western Maryland Interscholastic League with the Alco quint easily downing Barton 71-34 at Campobello while the Sentinels rallied to come from behind against Central at Fort Hill, 42-38.

In the only other league encounter Bruce's game with Beall at Frostburg was postponed because of a light and power failure.

Fort Hill's George McGregor once more came to the fore by scoring three quick baskets in the final three minutes of play to break a 34-34 tie as Coach Bobby Cavanaugh's Sentinels tripped Johnny Meyers' Central Tigers.

Central took a 12-7 lead in the first quarter and was on the long end of a 20-12 count at intermission. The Sentinels rallied to knot the score at 26-all at the close of the third period and then won out in the nip and tuck final stanza.

McGregor was the top bomber for the Cavanaughmen with 17 points while Ed Thompson tallied 16 for Central.

At Campobello Coach Walter L. Bowers' Alleganians began defense of their WMI crown by blasting the hapless Barton Braves beneath a 29-goal attack.

A 32-point splurge in the third quarter turned a fairly close game into a rout as nine of the 13 players used by Bowers joined the scoring parade.

Swisher Turns Author
Would Drop Play-offs
Fairgo Is Sandwiched

By C. V. BURNS

Arnet Swisher, member of the faculty of Keyser High School, and one-time Elk Garden High School basketball mentor, has turned author.

"Scent Trail Bucks" is his story which appears in the December issue of "American Woodsman."

The story, illustrated by three good photos, concerns a deer hunting expedition by Swisher and his companions into Beaver Creek, Tucker County, during the three-day hunters' choice season in the fall of 1951.

This bunch of amateurs in deer hunters' paradise bagged five bucks—three of which fell on the scent trail.

"Scent trail bucks? Horseradish, some oldtimers will say," Swisher writes. "What does he know about hunting? But the facts are there.

"Three bucks were taken on the scent trail by dragging little Dewey Dick's buck to camp. Maybe there were just too many deer. Maybe they just tried to run over us. Your guess is as good as mine."

The largest of the five had eight points and dressed out at 150 pounds.

Fleming Leads In Bing Crosby Golf With 66

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif., Jan. 9 (AP) — Square-jawed Pete Fleming, a one time pro boxer who turned to belting golf balls, scored a decision over a classy field today with a six-under-par 66 in the first round of the $10,000 Bing Crosby pro-amateur golf tournament.

Fleming, who had 78 fights as a welterweight prior to his professional golf career, turned in a masterful job in the initial 18 of the 54-hole event sponsored annually by crooner Crosby.

The pace-setter, playing on the par 35-37—72 Monterey Peninsula Country Club course, carded a solid 34-32.

Breathing down the leader's collar were three tough and tested campaigners, former U. S. Open Champion Lloyd Mangrum, Jack Burke Jr., and Jim Ferrier. All posted 67s.

As You Were

(This is the 46th in a series of sketches with pictures of well known sport personalities of the past from the album of the Cumberland News Sports Editor. See if you can identify them by their photo.)

Meet the physical director and one of the basketball stars of the local Central YMCA of 1906. That's when the "Y" was located on Baltimore street on the site of the present Peskin building and William L. Radcliffe was general secretary.

This handsome redhead was among Cumberland's earliest cage stars as the sport did not take a hold here until about 1900, nine years after it was originated by Dr. James A. Naismith, instructor at the Springfield YMCA in Massachusetts. Incidentally, the hoops used in Dr. Naismith's day were the cone-shaped peach baskets in general merchandising use in that era. Thus the name of the game. The original ball was a soccer ball. The game was first played with seven on a side, then nine, then eight. It was five, however, when this fellow played. Goals which now count two points were three points when he started. Each team called upon its specialist for foul shooting. Since about 1924 the man fouled must make the throw.

In his playing days the YMCA quint played Princeton and the New York Athletic Club quints and the best pro team at that time was the Buffalo (N.Y.) Germans.

A native of Cumberland, this athlete played on one of Cumberland's first school football teams at the Allegany County Academy.

He and Secretary Radcliffe left Cumberland for Richmond, Va., where they entered the entertainment field with the financial backing of one of the Hershey Brothers of the Hershey Chocolate Company. For three years this fellow managed Creatore's Band with headquarters in Washington, D. C. For many years he has been in the advertising business here. He's still connected with sports. What's his name?

He's L. E. "Red" Van Sant, Cumberland's "Grand Old Man of Tennis." He's been promoting city and county tennis tournaments since 1928 and in recent years has developed badminton in Cumberland. Now in his seventies, "Red" did not start playing tennis until he was 40 and is still active on the courts.

Bruce, Beall Tilt Reset For Tonight After Power Fails

Beall and Bruce, Allegany County's only undefeated basketball teams, failed to clash as scheduled last night at Frostburg due to a power failure and the contest has been rescheduled for tonight at 8 o'clock on the Beall High court.

Transformer trouble caused the lights to go out four minutes before the preliminary game was concluded with a packed house in attendance.

Both Bruce and Beall own 6-0 records.

Tonight's game will be their first of the season in the W.M.I. League.

LaSalle Tops Ridgeley By 28-21 Score

Hawks Are Held To Two Goals In First Two Periods

LaSalle High's Explorers held Ridgeley High to two field goals in the first half and went on to capture a low-scoring duel, 28-21, from the Blackhawks before a slim crowd at SS. Peter and Paul gym last night.

The Explorers themselves scored only 11 goals in one of the smallest output of points in a basketball game in this district in some time. Ridgeley tallied eight times from the field.

Ridgeley failed to hit from the floor until four minutes had passed in the second stanza when Fritz Showers connected. Bob Bradley followed seconds later with another fielder to account for both Ridgeley twin-pointers in the first two periods.

LaSalle hopped off in front on Marty Mullaney's bucket and were never headed, leading 7-2, 14-7 and 22-14 at the quarters.

Mullaney was top scorer for the evening with eight points while Showers had seven for Ridgeley.

Castellani Wins Nod Over Jones

NEW YORK, Jan. 9 (INS) Rocky Castellani, fifth-ranking middleweight title contender, outpointed Ralph (Tiger) Jones tonight in a Madison Square Garden ten-round split decision that found ring officials poles apart in their scoring.

In a bout in which Jones was the aggressor if not the more effective puncher, Judge Charley Shortell saw it 6-3-1 and Referee Al Berl 7-2-1 for Castellani. However, Judge Bill Healey gave an equally convincing edge to Jones, 7-2-1.

Castellani weighed 159¾ to Jones' 154¼. There were no knockdowns, although Jones twice slipped to his knees.

Amvets And Alhambra Take Shuffle Matches

The Amvets won two out of three games from the Cumberland V.F.W. and the Alhambra Club shut out the Hi Dee Club, 3-0, in Men's Shuffleboard League matches last night.

NCAA Approves TV Controls Changes In Cage Tournament

Vote 172-13 To Keep Video Restrictions

TOPS SCORERS — George McGregor, Fort Hill forward, holds a comfortable lead in the city scoring race with 137 points to his credit in seven games, an average of 19.6 points per contest. He has meshed 53 field goals and 31-59 fouls.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (AP)—The National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) today overwhelmingly adopted a program of strict controls for televising football next season.

The vote was 172 to 13.

The outcome meant that football television fans will see approximately the same number of college games next fall as they did last season when one game a week was telecast nationally.

Approves Report

The action merely approved a report made by the NCAA-TV committee. This committee automatically goes out of office with the end of this meeting. It will be replaced by a new committee, which probably will be appointed around Feb. 1.

The new committee will have the job of working out details for 1953 telecasts, but will be under a mandate from the convention to follow a program of controlled television.

Before that, the delegates voted approval of a new plan to conduct the NCAA basketball tournament, ruling out teams that compete in any other post-season tourney.

They also accepted a report from a special committee on post-season athletic events which recommended some rather severe restrictions on football bowl activities and heard a report from Michigan's Fritz Crisler, representing the National Football Rules Committee, which indicated that no attempt to wipe out platoon football is in the works.

Changes Are Planned

The change in the basketball tournament will go into effect next March. Instead of a 16-team affair, the NCAA tourney will include 23 teams, including 14 conference champions which qualify automatically.

The NCAA playoffs will begin March 9 with sectional eliminations. Four regional tournaments will be played March 13-14 and the finals March 17-18. The dates are a week earlier than they were last year, in line with efforts to shorten seasons.

Postage Stamp Is Proposed To Honor Babe Ruth

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (INS)—Sen. Butler (R) Md., proposed today that a special postage stamp be issued honoring the late George Herman (Babe) Ruth.

The senator, in a bill identical with one he introduced late last session, described Ruth as "a baseball immortal who became a hero to the entire nation when he established a home-run record which has never been equalled."

Butler suggested the first issue of the special stamp, if approved, be placed on sale at Baltimore.

Native Dancer Heads Ratings At 130 Pounds

Experimental Weights Listed By Campbell

NEW YORK, Jan. 9 (AP)—Native Dancer, as expected, was placed atop the Experimental free handicap ratings today with 130 pounds—only the fourth thoroughbred in the history of the Experimental to receive 130 or more pounds.

Alfred G. Vanderbilt's unbeaten grey colt, voted the No. 1 horse of 1952 by most racing authorities, is seven pounds above the second horses, the Trio Stable's Laffango and Ben Whitaker's Tahitian King.

The Experimental rankings are issued each January by John B. Campbell, veteran handicapper and racing secretary of the New York tracks. They reflect his opinion of what last year's two-year-olds will accomplish in such three-year-old classics as the Kentucky Derby, Preakness, Belmont and other stakes.

Also, they are the actual weights the horses must carry in the two Experimental handicaps raced at Jamaica in April when the sophomores are prepping for the derby.

The seven pound spread between Native Dancer and Tahitian King and Laffango is the greatest in Experimental history. Count Fleet, which received 132 — highest of all—gave five pounds to Devil's Thumb in 1943. The great Citation got only 126 in 1948, three more than for Better Self, and went on to win 19 of 20 races, including the Derby-Preakness-Belmont triple crown.

A total of 112 thoroughbreds was rated this year.

Germans Host Miami Hoboes In Sunday Tilt

Locals Seek 5th Win; Game Starts 8:30 P. M.

Player-manager Bob Pence's Cumberland Old Germans will strive for victory No. 5 tomorrow night when they host the Miami Hoboes at SS. Peter and Paul gym. The pro cage contest will get underway at 8:30 p. m.

The game will be the sixth of the season for the local quintet and the Germans will be after their fourth straight win. In their last three starts Cumberland has racked up triumphs over the Kansas City Trotters, 77-67; Pittsburgh Raiders, 101-72; and Wheeling Blues, 73-52.

The Hoboes will sport such players as Jack Lavelle who tallied 22 points against the locals with the Jersey City Reds who defeated the Germans earlier this season, 82-73. Other Hoboes are Bart Adams, Rick Vander Zee, Ed Lerner, George Kaucherak, and Shy Raiken.

Lerner, formerly of the Fort Wayne Pistons, appeared here last year against the Spas, while Raiken was a former Villanova cager.

Clifton Van Roby and Bill Hahn will officiate the contest, Pence stated last night.

In the preliminary engagement which will start at 7:15 p. m. two undefeated High School Rec League teams will provide the entertainment. They are DeMolay five and Tri-State Roofers.

Pence is the leading point-getter for the Germans, having racked up 71 markers in the five games the team has played. The team has registered 146 goals and 90 of 143 fouls for 382 points, an overall average of 76.4 per tilt. Individual scoring:

Kurowski To Manage

LANCASTER, Pa., Jan. 9 (INS)—The appointment of George (Whitey) Kurowski, former St. Louis Cardinal third baseman, as manager of the Lancaster Red Roses in the Interstate Baseball League, was announced today by Mike McNally, director of the Cleveland farm system.

The Class B team recently signed a farm agreement with the American League team.

Kurowski, whose home is in Reading, will take the Roses to Daytona Beach, Fla. in March for spring training. His last post was manager of the Allentown Cardinals, a St. Louis farm team. The Cards dropped their agreement with Allentown last year.

Racing Dates Changed At Pimlico, Bel Air

BALTIMORE, Jan. 9 (AP)—Pimlico received permission today to change its 1953 meeting dates in order to run a longer spring meet and shorter fall session.

John O'Keefe, director of public relations at the historic old track, said the State Racing Commission has okayed May 4-30 for the spring meeting and Oct. 12-24 for the fall meet.

This means an actual lengthening of the previously assigned spring dates, May 4-16, by eight days and a consequent shortening of the fall program by eight days. The statuatory limit of 33 racing days was not affected.

Bel Air, a half-mile oval, was originally assigned May 20-30 and the racing commission shifted Bel Air's meeting to Sept. 30-Oct. 10.

Pro Bowl Game Is Expected To Attract 50,000

Contest On Television To Begin At 4:30 P. M.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 9 (AP)—Quarterbacks Bobby Layne and Norman Van Brocklin team up against Otto Graham tomorrow as the key performers in the pro bowl game which concludes the over drawn football season.

Layne and Van Brocklin will alternate at the controls of the National Conference offensive platoon and Graham will steer the American Conference team in this third annual clash in Memorial Coliseum starring the leading players in the National Football League.

The contest will be televised by the National Broadcasting Co.

Kickoff time is 4:30 p. m. (EST). The TV show goes on 15 minutes earlier.

Coach Buddy Parker, who led the Detroit Lions to a 17-7 victory over Coach Paul Brown and the Cleveland club for the National League championship, is coaching the Nationals.

Brown pilots the Americans for the third straight year as the winner and twice runer-up title-contending coach.

A year ago the Americans took a 30-13 thumping but the year previous Graham and his coach, Brown, edged out the Nationals, 28-27.

If the weather is good, 50,000 or more fans are expected.

Native Dancer Heads Ratings At 130 Pounds

Experimental Weights Listed By Campbell

NEW YORK, Jan. 9 (AP)—Native Dancer, as expected, was placed atop the Experimental free handicap ratings today with 130 pounds—only the fourth thoroughbred in the history of the Experimental to receive 130 or more pounds.

Alfred G. Vanderbilt's unbeaten grey colt, voted the No. 1 horse of 1952 by most racing authorities, is seven pounds above the second horses, the Trio Stable's Laffango and Ben Whitaker's Tahitian King.

The Experimental rankings are issued each January by John B. Campbell, veteran handicapper and racing secretary of the New York tracks. They reflect his opinion of what last year's two-year-olds will accomplish in such three-year-old classics as the Kentucky Derby, Preakness, Belmont and other stakes.

Also, they are the actual weights the horses must carry in the two Experimental handicaps raced at Jamaica in April when the sophomores are prepping for the derby.

The seven pound spread between Native Dancer and Tahitian King and Laffango is the greatest in Experimental history. Count Fleet, which received 132 — highest of all—gave five pounds to Devil's Thumb in 1943. The great Citation got only 126 in 1948, three more than for Better Self, and went on to win 19 of 20 races, including the Derby-Preakness-Belmont triple crown.

A total of 112 thoroughbreds was rated this year.

Locals Seek 5th Win; Game Starts 8:30 P. M.

Player-manager Bob Pence's Cumberland Old Germans will strive for victory No. 5 tomorrow night when they host the Miami Hoboes at SS. Peter and Paul gym. The pro cage contest will get underway at 8:30 p. m.

The game will be the sixth of the season for the local quintet and the Germans will be after their fourth straight win. In their last three starts Cumberland has racked up triumphs over the Kansas City Trotters, 77-67; Pittsburgh Raiders, 101-72; and Wheeling Blues, 73-52.

The Hoboes will sport such players as Jack Lavelle who tallied 22 points against the locals with the Jersey City Reds who defeated the Germans earlier this season, 82-73. Other Hoboes are Bart Adams, Rick Vander Zee, Ed Lerner, George Kaucherak, and Shy Raiken.

Lerner, formerly of the Fort Wayne Pistons, appeared here last year against the Spas, while Raiken was a former Villanova cager.

Clifton Van Roby and Bill Hahn will officiate the contest, Pence stated last night.

In the preliminary engagement which will start at 7:15 p. m. two undefeated High School Rec League teams will provide the entertainment. They are DeMolay five and Tri-State Roofers.

Pence is the leading point-getter for the Germans, having racked up 71 markers in the five games the team has played. The team has registered 146 goals and 90 of 143 fouls for 382 points, an overall average of 76.4 per tilt. Individual scoring:

Kurowski To Manage

LANCASTER, Pa., Jan. 9 (INS) — The appointment of George (Whitey) Kurowski, former St. Louis Cardinal third baseman, as manager of the Lancaster Red Roses in the Interstate Baseball League, was announced today by Mike McNally, director of the Cleveland farm system.

The Class B team recently signed a farm agreement with the American League team.

Kurowski, whose home is in Reading, will take the Roses to Daytona Beach, Fla. in March for spring training. His last post was manager of the Allentown Cardinals, a St. Louis farm team. The Cards dropped their agreement with Allentown last year.

Racing Dates Changed At Pimlico, Bel Air

BALTIMORE, Jan. 9 (AP)—Pimlico received permission today to change its 1953 meeting dates in order to run a longer spring meet and shorter fall session.

John O'Keefe, director of public relations at the historic old track, said the State Racing Commission has okayed May 4-30 for the spring meeting and Oct. 12-24 for the fall meet.

This means an actual lengthening of the previously assigned spring dates, May 4-16, by eight days and a consequent shortening of the fall program by eight days. The statuatory limit of 33 racing days was not affected.

Bel Air, a half-mile oval, was originally assigned May 20-30 and the racing commission shifted Bel Air's meeting to Sept. 30-Oct. 10.

Pro Bowl Game Is Expected To Attract 50,000

Contest On Television To Begin At 4:30 P. M.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 9 (AP) — Quarterbacks Bobby Layne and Norman Van Brocklin team up against Otto Graham tomorrow as the key performers in the pro bowl game which concludes the over drawn football season.

Layne and Van Brocklin will alternate at the controls of the National Conference offensive platoon and Graham will steer the American Conference team in this third annual clash in Memorial Coliseum starring the leading players in the National Football League.

The contest will be televised by the National Broadcasting Co.

Kickoff time is 4:30 p. m. (EST). The TV show goes on 15 minutes earlier.

Coach Buddy Parker, who led the Detroit Lions to a 17-7 victory over Coach Paul Brown and the Cleveland club for the National League championship, is coaching the Nationals.

Brown pilots the Americans for the third straight year as the winner and twice runer-up title-contending coach.

A year ago the Americans took a 30-13 thumping but the year previous Graham and his coach, Brown, edged out the Nationals, 28-27.

If the weather is good, 50,000 or more fans are expected.

Frostburg Wages Daily Fight On Ice And Slush

Confusion Noted On New Ordinance

FROSTBURG—The City Street Department has been successfully engaged every day since Tuesday's snowfall clearing the slush and ice from Main Street in accordance with the city ordinance passed at the November meeting of the Mayor and City Commissioners.

The ordinance prohibits parking on Main Street from Grant to the westerly limits of the city, Water Street from First Alley to College Avenue and Broadway from Main to College Avenue during the hours of 2 to 6 a. m., from December 15 1952 to March 31, 1953 and thereafter beginning on November 1 of each year and ending April 1 of each year.

Some confusion was caused on the western end of Main Street during the week, the result of an error in an item previously published that the parking ban applied to Main Street from Grant to High Street only.

Motorists who accepted the ordinance provision previously published as correct had their parked cars tagged Wednesday morning between High and the western city limits but were excused from paying any penalty. However, future parking in this area will result in a fine as provided by the ordinance.

Police Commissioner Perry W. Myers was in no way responsible for previous publication of the no parking ordinance.

Devon Supplies Will Curtail Sale Of Food

LUKE — The Devon Supplies, organized in 1939 for the convenience of employes of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, will limit its operations to the sale of clothing in the future, it was announced yesterday by officials of the company.

Grocery, meat and produce lines are being discontinued, and the Miller Building on Cromwell Street will be vacated to make room for the expanding office personnel of the company. It is planned to conduct the clothing business in the Laughlin Building, also on Cromwell Street.

The food business is to be eliminated, officials said, because of changing conditions and the need of space for office personnel.

The Miller Building, owned by the company, is to be utilized for office purposes because it is better located than the Laughlin Building, and also because it can be remodeled for personnel work at about half the estimated cost of remodeling any other available structure.

There will be no change in operations at the Devon Club which provides recreation facilities.

The Devon Supplies setup was provided in 1939 when John Miller, who conducted a centrally located grocery business near the Devon Club, decided to retire.

Frostburg Fire Company Elects

FROSTBURG—G. Woodrow Layman was elected chief of the Frostburg Fire Department at the annual election of officers held a recent evening. Layman will serve for his seventh consecutive term.

Others elected were Paul Haberlein, president; Thomas Rank, vice president; William Vogtman, secretary; Alvin Rankin, treasurer; Harry Michaels, sergeant-at-arms, and Robert Stewart, chaplain.

Standing committee, Paul Nickel, James Loar, Joseph McGuire, Ernest Pfaff and Thomas Kerr.

The new officers will be installed Tuesday evening, January 13.

FROSTBURG—Mrs. George Miller, Woodland, was hostess to the Midlothian Homemakers Club a recent evening at their January meeting.

Mrs. Anthony Ritchie, president of the club and the 11 members who attended answered the roll by stating whether they had a first aid kit in their homes.

The program, following The Lord's Prayer, included a poem, "Go To Church", read by Mrs. Alex Middleton. The history of the hymn, "Hail to the Lord's Anointed" was read by Miss Sylvia Simmons.

A collation served by Mrs. Miller was the terminating feature.

The February meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Alex Middleton, with a program appropriate to the Valentine season.

Frostburg Wages Daily Fight On Ice And Slush

Confusion Noted On New Ordinance

FROSTBURG—The City Street Department has been successfully engaged every day since Tuesday's snowfall clearing the slush and ice from Main Street in accordance with the city ordinance passed at the November meeting of the Mayor and City Commissioners.

The ordinance prohibits parking on Main Street from Grant to the westerly limits of the city, Water Street from First Alley to College Avenue and Broadway from Main to College Avenue during the hours of 2 to 6 a. m., from December 15 1952 to March 31, 1953 and thereafter beginning on November 1 of each year and ending April 1 of each year.

Some confusion was caused on the western end of Main Street during the week, the result of an error in an item previously published that the parking ban applied to Main Street from Grant to High Street only.

Motorists who accepted the ordinance provision previously published as correct had their parked cars tagged Wednesday morning between High and the western city limits but were excused from paying any penalty. However, future parking in this area will result in a fine as provided by the ordinance.

Police Commissioner Perry W. Myers was in no way responsible for previous publication of the no parking ordinance.

Devon Supplies Will Curtail Sale Of Food

LUKE — The Devon Supplies, organized in 1939 for the convenience of employes of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, will limit its operations to the sale of clothing in the future, it was announced yesterday by officials of the company.

Grocery, meat and produce lines are being discontinued, and the Miller Building on Cromwell Street will be vacated to make room for the expanding office personnel of the company. It is planned to conduct the clothing business in the Laughlin Building, also on Cromwell Street.

The food business is to be eliminated, officials said, because of changing conditions and the need of space for office personnel.

The Miller Building, owned by the company, is to be utilized for office purposes because it is better located than the Laughlin Building, and also because it can be remodeled for personnel work at about half the estimated cost of remodeling any other available structure.

There will be no change in operations at the Devon Club which provides recreation facilities.

The Devon Supplies setup was provided in 1939 when John Miller, who conducted a centrally located grocery business near the Devon Club, decided to retire.

Frostburg Fire Company Elects

FROSTBURG—G. Woodrow Layman was elected chief of the Frostburg Fire Department at the annual election of officers held a recent evening. Layman will serve for his seventh consecutive term.

Others elected were Paul Haberlein, president; Thomas Rank, vice president; William Vogtman, secretary; Alvin Rankin, treasurer; Harry Michaels, sergeant-at-arms, and Robert Stewart, chaplain.

Standing committee, Paul Nickel, James Loar, Joseph McGuire, Ernest Pfaff and Thomas Kerr.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 9—(INS)—That half million dollar profit that Joan Crawford stands to make with "Sudden Fear," did much to make up her mind to do another independent picture.

She is closing the rights to "Promised Land," a novel by Joan Lowell. Joseph Kaufman, who produced "Sudden Fear," took an option on the book which is the true story of a woman who opened up the Brazilian frontier, just as our hardy American women pioneered the west 100 years ago.

The deal couldn't be confirmed, however, until the Brazilian government approved the purchase and the picture being made in Brazil. Approval has come through, but meanwhile Kaufman has made another deal. So Joan, on her own, has brought this story and David Miller, who directed "Sudden Fear," will do the same job on "Promised Land."

Next month Linda Darnell takes off for Rome and another picture with Director-producer Giuseppe Amata. Linda plans to stay in Europe for some months and is taking her little daughter, Lotta, with her.

Before she left Italy Linda made all plans to star in "Forbidden Women" which Amata had written with the sultry, dark-eyed belle in mind. Although Linda has always indignantly denied there was any romance with Amata, she is without doubt his favorite actress and could appear in all the Amata films if she wished.

Rosemary Clooney, looking like an angel, followed by cake bearers and candles at the Adolph Zukor dinner, was half way down the ramp before she discovered she had a piece of gum in her mouth.

"What did you do?" I asked her.

"Oh, I just parked it on the side of my mouth and started singing 'Happy Birthday'."

Backstage, before the festivities started at the Zukor dinner, all of Lottie and Adolph's old friends gathered. It was wonderful to see both of them so happy. When I posed in a picture with both of them, Adolph said proudly, "careful your coat doesn't touch the cake—it's real." It was the biggest cake I've ever seen.

Lottie said to my daughter, Harriet, "I remember when you were born."

Mrs. Gregory Peck plans to return to this country about the middle of March to put the children in school in America. Greg will not return with Greta.

Mel Ferrer joined Greg in Paris and they are taking a two week motor trip before Mel goes to Africa to begin "Saadia." The real reason Mel is with Greg at this time is to try to straighten out the tangled affairs of the Peck marriage.

Despite all denials, Greg and Greta are having a rough time. This isn't the first time there's been trouble in the family, but heretofore the Pecks have managed to avoid a break.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Keefe Brasselle knocked himself out doing four hot Eddie Cantor numbers, and he was given a sedative. He is as sensational as Cantor.

Viscount Furness, son of Lady Furness, at the age of 23 has been appointed aide-de-camp to the Governor of the Bahamas. This is an honor for so young a man. Tony leaves directly to take that post. He's been given leave of absence from the flourishing wine business he and a partner have built up in London.

Mrs. Danny Kaye with Jack Lawrence and Walter Myden, Phil Reagan with his whole family, wife and children, Frankie Laine and his pretty Nan, all joined in the community singing at Ciro's. Darla Hood, who sang "Sunny Side Of The Street," didn't know that Frankie was in the house until Jimmy McHugh told her. But Darla didn't have to worry, she sang beautifully.

At the second show Eddie Arnold joined in the singing, as did Esther Williams and others. It was like New Year's Eve, so gay. Herman Hover, mine host, who is in at every late show, did his famous dance.

At the Mocambo Myrna Dell and Ralph Fields were there to hear the Quintetto Allegro, which is very good. John Payne and Colleen Grey, on the serious side, were also at the Mo for the opening show.

That's all today. See you Monday.

Gas Leak Checked

Central firemen were called yesterday at 10:26 a. m. to the home of Thomas L. Green, 556 North Mechanic Street, to check a leak in a gas stove. Officials of the C&A Gas Company were notified.

If you want your clothes to keep their beauty keep them in a beautifully kept closet.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

To carry off clothes with an assured air you need more than poise and the knowledge that they have been well-selected. You must possess the kind of regard for them that results in their fastidious care.

Given the most exquisite wardrobe, the kind that would thrill any feminine heart, your pleasure and delight in it would be quickly dissipated if you crammed it into a dingy or disorderly closet. In a very short time those clothes would look as dingy and disorderly as the closet itself.

For Clothes Assurance

Since lack of space is the major plaint about closets, let's consider ways of making even the smallest cubbyhole seem larger. Shelves can make a lot of difference: Figure on having at least two additional ones placed high for storing out-of-season and seldom used articles. With angle irons, small shelves for small objects can be fitted into corners. A narrow ledge run along the wall, three inches off the floor is ideal for items that too frequently are strewn on the floor. For a meticulous look, let nothing reside on the parquet but a shiny coat of wax!

Redecorating you can do yourself at small cost. Pre-pasted wallpaper and one-coat paint make the job a snap. Fabric bags to hold shoes and paper covered boxes for hats and store-aways are kindergarten work and fun.

To these improvements, add a few readymade aids. Tops among them is a metal glove and purse rack, which can be placed on any available wall surface. It will also hold sizeable accessories, including belts, umbrellas, scarves and clothes brushes. Also plan on several wooden wall boxes. Doweled in, they will accommodate mending, cleaning equipment and all sorts of odds and ends.

Every Need Answered

Shops spill over with space savers such as short rods for blouses and slacks, shoe bags, bags, shelves and pin cushions for the back of the door, clear plastic bags for protecting delicate or stored garments, scarlet (for danger) hangers or clips to mark clothes needing repair.

Possibly the greatest benefit in doing over a closet is the opportunity it provides to weed out clothes you never wear. Be strong! Do it! More space and less clutter will help you keep the clothes you wear frequently in orderly, convenient fashion.

Finish with a touch of fragrance and yours will be the kind of well-dressed closet that produces best-dressed women!

YOUR STEPS TO A SUCCESSFUL CAREER

A worthwhile investment in charm for every girl starting a business career — every girl or woman now in business who is eager to reach top-flight success. It tells you how to make that important "good impression" to get your job . . . reveals secrets on how to hold your job. See how easy it is to choose a suitable wardrobe. Save time — uncertainty — needless worry through these short cut steps in charm that lead to YOUR SUCCESS. them have been pretty fragile and pointless exercises. The producers could have done better recruiting a local live ballet company. This has taught them one lesson—that it is dangerous to contract for a film made someplace else on the basis of a working script. A script can offer mangnificent promise which the film utterly fails to fulfill.

Operations like this, which are, as it were, done off the premises, have been the most disappointing because they have got out of the hands of the producers. On the other hand, "Omnibus" has offered some really rewarding things. There have been splendid performances by Helen Hayes, Rex Harrison, Lilli Palmer and Burgess Meredith. One thing about "Omnibus"—it has recruited the very best of actors and writers. As offbeat performances, it has had Leopold Stokowski acting as a guide to a picture gallery to the accompaniment of Moussorgsky's "Pictures at a Gallery" and Helen Hayes reciting Mother Goose.

Last week, there was Chekhov's "The Bear" with a fine, lusty, stylish performance by Michael Redgrave (and a rather noisy one by June Havoc). The third of the William Saroyan original plays written for this show was touching, funny, wildly original and only slightly dampened by tears. The French ballet was better than the others, though hardly a ballet at all. Next week, as offbeat casting, Bert Lahr and Bobby Clark will team up in the fourth of Saroyan's plays which certainly ought to be interesting juxtaposition.

In other words, "Omnibus" which sagged a bit after its opening, is on the whole doing pretty well and learning a lot. One criticism of it is that it relies pretty heavily on Shakespeare, Maxwell Anderson and Saroyan and hasn't experimented with young writers but, as Saudek says, "You can experiment yourself right out of an audience." The sponsors are now paying the full bill (and at $20,000 a half hour, it's not cheap) which leaves all the Ford money for other purposes. The Foundation is already at work on another program, possibly a children's program for next fall.

Down in the Valley...

As has often (and too often) been said . . . There are those who eat to live, and others who live to eat. Regardless of your attitude . . . food can be fun. The surroundings make the difference . . . ze atmosphere, senors, senoritas! Given the proper setting even poorly prepared food will take on greater appeal. But when the food is wonderful to begin with . . . the atmosphere calm and collected and a bit contentinentalish . . . ahh! such meals are served for kings and people who come Down in the Valley! Set the stage with soft candle light and dinnerish music . . . bring on the real Italian spaghetti and wine . . . and, heave to! What have you? Down in the Valley chum, every Saturday evening . . . where you'll find dinner served with a continental flair for you and your favorite lady.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 9—(INS)—That half million dollar profit that Joan Crawford stands to make with "Sudden Fear," did much to make up her mind to do another independent picture.

She is closing the rights to "Promised Land," a novel by Joan Lowell. Joseph Kaufman, who produced "Sudden Fear," took an option on the book which is the true story of a woman who opened up the Brazilian frontier, just as our hardy American women pioneered the west 100 years ago.

The deal couldn't be confirmed, however, until the Brazilian government approved the purchase and the picture being made in Brazil. Approval has come through, but meanwhile Kaufman has made another deal. So Joan, on her own, has brought this story and David Miller, who directed "Sudden Fear," will do the same job on "Promised Land."

Next month Linda Darnell takes off for Rome and another picture with Director-producer Giuseppe Amata. Linda plans to stay in Europe for some months and is taking her little daughter, Lotta, with her.

Before she left Italy Linda made all plans to star in "Forbidden Women" which Amata had written with the sultry, dark-eyed belle in mind. Although Linda has always indignantly denied there was any romance with Amata, she is without doubt his favorite actress and could appear in all the Amata films if she wished.

Rosemary Clooney, looking like an angel, followed by cake bearers and candles at the Adolph Zukor dinner, was half way down the ramp before she discovered she had a piece of gum in her mouth.

"What did you do?" I asked her.

"Oh, I just parked it on the side of my mouth and started singing 'Happy Birthday'."

Backstage, before the festivities started at the Zukor dinner, all of Lottie and Adolph's old friends gathered. It was wonderful to see both of them so happy. When I posed in a picture with both of them, Adolph said proudly, "careful your coat doesn't touch the cake—it's real." It was the biggest cake I've ever seen.

Lottie said to my daughter, Harriet, "I remember when you were born."

Mrs. Gregory Peck plans to return to this country about the middle of March to put the children in school in America. Greg will not return with Greta.

Mel Ferrer joined Greg in Paris and they are taking a two week motor trip before Mel goes to Africa to begin "Saadia." The real reason Mel is with Greg at this time is to try to straighten out the tangled affairs of the Peck marriage.

Despite all denials, Greg and Greta are having a rough time. This isn't the first time there's been trouble in the family, but heretofore the Pecks have managed to avoid a break.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Keefe Brasselle knocked himself out doing four hot Eddie Cantor numbers, and he was given a sedative. He is as sensational as Cantor.

Viscount Furness, son of Lady Furness, at the age of 23 has been appointed aide-de-camp to the Governor of the Bahamas. This is an honor for so young a man. Tony leaves directly to take that post. He's been given leave of absence from the flourishing wine business he and a partner have built up in London.

Mrs. Danny Kaye with Jack Lawrence and Walter Myden, Phil Reagan with his whole family, wife and children, Frankie Laine and his pretty Nan, all joined in the community singing at Ciro's. Darla Hood, who sang "Sunny Side Of The Street," didn't know that Frankie was in the house until Jimmy McHugh told her. But Darla didn't have to worry, she sang beautifully.

At the second show Eddie Arnold joined in the singing, as did Esther Williams and others. It was like New Year's Eve, so gay. Herman Hover, mine host, who is in at every late show, did his famous dance.

At the Mocambo Myrna Dell and Ralph Fields were there to hear the Quintetto Allegro, which is very good. John Payne and Colleen Grey, on the serious side, were also at the Mo for the opening show.

That's all today. See you Monday.

Gas Leak Checked

Central firemen were called yesterday at 10:26 a. m. to the home of Thomas L. Green, 556 North Mechanic Street, to check a leak in a gas stove. Officials of the C&A Gas Company were notified.

If you want your clothes to keep their beauty keep them in a beautifully kept closet.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

To carry off clothes with an assured air you need more than poise and the knowledge that they have been well-selected. You must possess the kind of regard for them that results in their fastidious care.

Given the most exquisite wardrobe, the kind that would thrill any feminine heart, your pleasure and delight in it would be quickly dissipated if you crammed it into a dingy or disorderly closet. In a very short time those clothes would look as dingy and disorderly as the closet itself.

For Clothes Assurance

Since lack of space is the major plaint about closets, let's consider ways of making even the smallest cubbyhole seem larger. Shelves can make a lot of difference: Figure on having at least two additional ones placed high for storing out-of-season and seldom used articles. With angle irons, small shelves for small objects can be fitted into corners. A narrow ledge run along the wall, three inches off the floor is ideal for items that too frequently are strewn on the floor. For a meticulous look, let nothing reside on the parquet but a shiny coat of wax!

Redecorating you can do yourself at small cost. Pre-pasted wallpaper and one-coat paint make the job a snap. Fabric bags to hold shoes and paper covered boxes for hats and store-aways are kindergarten work and fun.

To these improvements, add a few readymade aids. Tops among them is a metal glove and purse rack, which can be placed on any available wall surface. It will also hold sizeable accessories, including belts, umbrellas, scarves and clothes brushes. Also plan on several wooden wall boxes. Doweled in, they will accommodate mending, cleaning equipment and all sorts of odds and ends.

Every Need Answered

Shops spill over with space savers such as short rods for blouses and slacks, shoe bags, bags, shelves and pin cushions for the back of the door, clear plastic bags for protecting delicate or stored garments, scarlet (for danger) hangers or clips to mark clothes needing repair.

Possibly the greatest benefit in doing over a closet is the opportunity it provides to weed out clothes you never wear. Be strong! Do it! More space and less clutter will help you keep the clothes you wear frequently in orderly, convenient fashion.

Finish with a touch of fragrance and yours will be the kind of well-dressed closet that produces best-dressed women!

Radio And Television

Nine Weeks Later

"Omnibus," the enormously ambitious Ford Foundation program which runs an hour and a half every Sunday afternoon on CBS-TV (4:30 p. m. EST), has been admittedly an up-and-down proposition. The first hour and a half program was remarkably interesting. The sacond was remarkably duil. Others have been painful and last Sunday's was pretty wonderful.

John Crosby

And so it goes, with a program as boldly experimental as this one. However, after nine weeks of thrashing about, certain facts are becoming apparent, many of them heartening. Firstly, "Omnibus," which—good, bad or indifferent — has never patterned itself after commercial shows and has in fact strained rather too hard the other way, now has five sponsors which is all it can take. That fact should give anyone pause for reflection. I've always had a theory that any worthwhile program could attract a sponsor if it were on a major network at a decent time. "Omnibus" supports that theory.

Attracting an audience is a different matter. "Omnibus" started out with a rating of 30, which is pretty phenomenal. It has slipped quite a bit since then. However, the second fact which is emerging about "Omnibus" is also encouraging to those of us interested in a constant upward revision of television standards. The most successful features of "Omnibus" have been the boldest ones, the most experimental ones.

Robert Saudek, director of the Ford Foundation Radio and Television Workshop, has stated that "Omnibus" is not interested in an ordinary drama, even a good one, which could be done on any of the other dramatic programs. It is interested in the "off beat" drama, the drama that is some way unusual, that challenges the viewer's imagination or wits or sometimes his temper. Actually, the producers of the show would much prefer to get a flood of denunciatory mail than no mail at all.

"We aim to arouse strong emotions, either favorable or unfavorable," says Saudek. "Indifference we can't stand."

This, in broadcasting circles, is an admirable and almost inconceivable stand but it has not always led to admirable results. The first of the films on Lincoln was a tedious affair and the death of Lincoln (in which they all but embalmed him in front of our eyes) a pretty gruesome one. Then, a couple of weeks ago, "Omnibus" came up with a Danish film about a small boy who suddenly found himself all alone in the world and had a wonderful time driving the streetcars and doing all the forbidden things. It was delightful.

The first large enterprise the Workshop contracted for was a series of French ballets which were were filmed in Paris. Having bought them, "Omnibus" was more or less stuck with them. Most of

Radio And Television

Nine Weeks Later

"Omnibus," the enormously ambitious Ford Foundation program which runs an hour and a half every Sunday afternoon on CBS-TV (4:30 p. m. EST), has been admittedly an up-and-down proposition. The first hour and a half program was remarkably interesting. The sacond was remarkably duil. Others have been painful and last Sunday's was pretty wonderful. And so it goes, with a program as boldly experimental as this one. However, after nine weeks of thrashing about, certain facts are becoming apparent, many of them heartening. Firstly, "Omnibus," which—good, bad or indifferent — has never patterned itself after commercial shows and has in fact strained rather too hard the other way, now has five sponsors which is all it can take. That fact should give anyone pause for reflection. I've always had a theory that any worthwhile program could attract a sponsor if it were on a major network at a decent time. "Omnibus" supports that theory.

John Crosby

Attracting an audience is a different matter. "Omnibus" started out with a rating of 30, which is pretty phenomenal. It has slipped quite a bit since then. However, the second fact which is emerging about "Omnibus" is also encouraging to those of us interested in a constant upward revision of television standards. The most successful features of "Omnibus" have been the boldest ones, the most experimental ones.

Robert Saudek, director of the Ford Foundation Radio and Television Workshop, has stated that "Omnibus" is not interested in an ordinary drama, even a good one, which could be done on any of the other dramatic programs. It is interested in the "off beat" drama, the drama that is some way unusual, that challenges the viewer's imagination or wits or sometimes his temper. Actually, the producers of the show would much prefer to get a flood of denunciatory mail than no mail at all.

"We aim to arouse strong emotions, either favorable or unfavorable," says Saudek. "Indifference we can't stand."

This, in broadcasting circles, is an admirable and almost inconceivable stand but it has not always led to admirable results. The first of the films on Lincoln was a tedious affair and the death of Lincoln (in which they all but embalmed him in front of our eyes) a pretty gruesome one. Then, a couple of weeks ago, "Omnibus" came up with a Danish film about a small boy who suddenly found himself all alone in the world and had a wonderful time driving the streetcars and doing all the forbidden things. It was delightful.

The first large enterprise the Workshop contracted for was a series of French ballets which were were filmed in Paris. Having bought them, "Omnibus" was more or less stuck with them. Most of

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear Father and Grandfather, Christopher C. Garlick, who passed away one year ago January 10, 1952.
Always so true, unselfish and kind.
Few in this world his equal you'll find,
A beautiful life that came to an end.
He died as he lived—everyone's friend.
Beautiful memories of a smiling face,
A broken link no one can replace,
What ever else we fail to do,
We'll never fail to think of you
Sadly missed by the Children and Grandchildren.

In loving memory of our dear Mother, Mrs. Lillian Bennett, who passed away 2 years ago today, January 10, 1951.
You were taken from us Mother,
Just 2 years ago today,
And how much we miss you,
There're no words on earth can say,
Your memory lingers in our hearts,
Deep, tender, fond and true,
There's not a day dear Mother,
That we do not think of you.
Sadly missed by the Children.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear Father and Grandfather, Christopher C. Garlick, who passed away one year ago January 10, 1952.
Always so true, unselfish and kind.
Few in this world his equal you'll find,
A beautiful life that came to an end.
He died as he lived—everyone's friend.
Beautiful memories of a smiling face,
A broken link no one can replace,
What ever else we fail to do,
We'll never fail to think of you
Sadly missed by the Children and Grandchildren.

In loving memory of our dear Mother, Mrs. Lillian Bennett, who passed away 2 years ago today, January 10, 1951.
You were taken from us Mother,
Just 2 years ago today,
And how much we miss you,
There're no words on earth can say,
Your memory lingers in our hearts,
Deep, tender, fond and true,
There's not a day dear Mother,
That we do not think of you.
Sadly missed by the Children.

LA VALE

The lovely new 2-story 6-room cement finished dwelling along National Highway, opposite Cash Valley Road. This property must be seen to be fully appreciated. Owner built same for his own home and is most complete, modern and represents the very best of construction. This property naturally represents a heavy investment but owner is willing to sell (due to locating in another city) at less than cost. Builder spent considerable time and effort in purchasing the best material at the lowest figures and taking advantage of every discount. Liberal financing can be arranged and early possession of the property can be given the purchaser.

Daily Bridge Lesson

by Shepard Barclay

YOU HAVE LOTS OF TIME

HURRYING as fast as you can is an important factor in certain bidding situations. If you realize your side wants to get into a high contract, without the opponents finding out about a possible point-saving sacrifice against it, you are impelled to jump high and fast to erect a barrier against them. But if the contract you have in view is in No Trumps or the highest-ranking suit of spades, you are not so worried about that. No matter what suit they may bid against you, it is possible to overcall them.

	♠ A 10 6 2 ♥ Q 7 ♦ K 9 3 ♣ A J 8 7
♠ Q 9 7 4 ♥ J 9 8 ♦ 7 ♣ K 10 9 6 2	N W E S	♠ J 8 5 3 ♥ 5 2 ♦ J 6 4 ♣ Q 5 4 3
	♠ K ♥ A K 10 6 4 3 ♦ A Q 10 8 5 2 ♣ None

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
2 ♥	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
3 ♦	Pass	4 ♣	Pass
4 NT	Pass	5 ♥	Pass
5 NT	Pass	6 ♦	Pass
7 NT

It was a good thing for the declarer that North's king, shown in response to the Blackwood 5-No Trumps, happened to be in diamonds instead of clubs. Otherwise the contract might have depended on a diamond finesse. As it was, after West's lead of the spade 4, South was able to pick and choose regarding the tricks he preferred to take. He played just enough to show that both red suits would establish, then spread his hand. All told, he could select any thirteen tricks he wanted, from among six in each in the red suits and three in the blacks.

North said afterward that he could hardly believe his ears when he heard South open with a two bid. He was ready for a force to game if South opened at all, with one of any suit. When he heard the two bid, he said, he was practically ready to say 7-No Trumps at once without any temporizing. If the ultimate contract in view had been clubs, he declared, he would have bid 7-Clubs instanter on his first turn, to prevent the opponents from learning that they might sacrifice profitably in some other suit. But since he was ready for No Trumps, with something useful in every suit, he decided to take his time, as anything they might call could be outbid. The pair therefore probed all logical factors before landing in the maximum contract, taking its time throughout.

Your Weekend Question

In what way would you revise your usual bidding methods if you had a fine player for a partner who was in most respects a splendid bidder except for a tendency to pass occasionally in circumstances where you would expect the bidding to be kept open?

Sudden Burst Of Selling Sends Stock Prices Down

NEW WYORK, Jan. 9 (AP)—A sudden and quite sharp burst of selling sent the stock market down abruptly today in a farily wide reaction.

The fall was considered to be within normal bounds, although it was the most severe shakeout in about three months.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks lost $1.10. That amount has not been exceeded since Oct. 15 of last year. The average closed at $114.10 with the industrial component down $1.60, railroads down $1.10, and utilities down 10 cents.

Volume came to 2,080,000 shares with the heaviest part of the trading on the downbeat of prices.

Of the ten most active issues in the list, four advanced, including New York Central at the top of the list with 116,500 shares traded up ¼ to 24⅞.

It was followed by Pennsylvania Railroad off ¼ at 23⅛, Baltimore & Ohio of ⅜ at 20½, Armour & Co. up ⅛ at 10⅞, and Benguet Consolidated Mining off ⅛ at 1⅝.

Armour paid a dividend of $3 on the $6 preferred, the same as a year ago.

Daily Bridge Lesson

by Shepard Barclay

YOU HAVE LOTS OF TIME

HURRYING as fast as you can is an important factor in certain bidding situations. If you realize your side wants to get into a high contract, without the opponents finding out about a possible point-saving sacrifice against it, you are impelled to jump high and fast to erect a barrier against them. But if the contract you have in view is in No Trumps or the highest-ranking suit of spades, you are not so worried about that. No matter what suit they may bid against you, it is possible to overcall them.

	♠ A 10 6 2 ♥ Q 7 ♦ K 9 3 ♣ A J 8 7
♠ Q 9 7 4 ♥ J 9 8 ♦ 7 ♣ K 10 9 6 2	N W E S	♠ J 8 5 3 ♥ 5 2 ♦ J 6 4 ♣ Q 5 4 3
	♠ K ♥ A K 10 6 4 3 ♦ A Q 10 8 5 2 ♣ None

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
2 ♥	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
3 ♦	Pass	4 ♣	Pass
4 NT	Pass	5 ♥	Pass
5 NT	Pass	6 ♦	Pass
7 NT

It was a good thing for the declarer that North's king, shown in response to the Blackwood 5-No Trumps, happened to be in diamonds instead of clubs. Otherwise the contract might have depended on a diamond finesse. As it was, after West's lead of the spade 4, South was able to pick and choose regarding the tricks he preferred to take. He played just enough to show that both red suits would establish, then spread his hand. All told, he could select any thirteen tricks he wanted, from among six in each in the red suits and three in the blacks.

North said afterward that he could hardly believe his ears when he heard South open with a two bid. He was ready for a force to game if South opened at all, with one of any suit. When he heard the two bid, he said, he was practically ready to say 7-No Trumps at once without any temporizing. If the ultimate contract in view had been clubs, he declared, he would have bid 7-Clubs instanter on his first turn, to prevent the opponents from learning that they might sacrifice profitably in some other suit. But since he was ready for No Trumps, with something useful in every suit, he decided to take his time, as anything they might call could be outbid. The pair therefore probed all logical factors before landing in the maximum contract, taking its time throughout.

Your Weekend Question

In what way would you revise your usual bidding methods if you had a fine player for a partner who was in most respects a splendid bidder except for a tendency to pass occasionally in circumstances where you would expect the bidding to be kept open?

Sudden Burst Of Selling Sends Stock Prices Down

NEW YORK, Jan. 9 (AP)—A sudden and quite sharp burst of selling sent the stock market down abruptly today in a farily wide reaction.

The fall was considered to be within normal bounds, although it was the most severe shakeout in about three months.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks lost $1.10. That amount has not been exceeded since Oct. 15 of last year. The average closed at $114.10 with the industrial component down $1.60, railroads down $1.10, and utilities down 10 cents.

Volume came to 2,080,000 shares with the heaviest part of the trading on the downbeat of prices.

Of the ten most active issues in the list, four advanced, including New York Central at the top of the list with 116,500 shares traded up ¼ to 24⅞.

It was followed by Pennsylvania Railroad off ¼ at 23⅛, Baltimore & Ohio of ⅜ at 20½, Armour & Co. up ⅛ at 10⅞, and Benguet Consolidated Mining off ⅛ at 1⅝.

Armour paid a dividend of $3 on the $6 preferred, the same as a year ago.

Sleet, Snow And Ice Continue To Plague Western Maryland

Normal Power Service Slated In Area Today

Frostburg Section Towns Are Dark

A number of Western Maryland communities were still without electricity last night but Potomac Edison Company officials said line crews, many of whom had worked over 40 hours since the heavy sleet storm hit, expect to have service back to normal by noon today.

The crews were forced to halt work last night after a heavy fog rolled into the area.

Potomac Edison Company line crews attached to the Cumberland district were getting their first rest last night since the storm broke.

Henry W. Price, district manager, said the men were sent home for some needed rest after area service was restored to normal.

The weary line crews had been on continuous service, repairing still in darkness last night, and fog and freezing rain hampered efforts to repair lines.

Service Is Normal

Power service was normal yesterday in Frostburg, but a number of communities of that area were still in darkness last, and fog and freezing rain hampered efforts to repair lines.

Frostburg was out of power Thursday from 12:29 to 5 p. m., when a line from Keyser was cut in for the Miners Hospital section.

Yesterday at 4:20 a. m., the line from Cumberland to Frostburg, which had been broken in three places, was back in service and by 7 a. m. Frostburg was receiving its normal quota of electricity.

Early last night, a number of Frostburg area communities, including Eckhart, Vale Summit, Midlothian, Shaft and Carlos, were still without electricity.

Branch Lines Snap

Broken branch lines supplying power to those communities had been put back into service yesterday, but all went out again last night.

Heavy fog forced crews to halt work on the lines when dark fell, but officials said the breaks should be repaired by early today.

Most heavily hit last night was Garrett County, where Accident and Friendsville were in the dark last night.

Walter T. Kline, Frostburg area manager, said service in the communities around Frostburg should be back to normal by mid morning and that the trouble in the Accident - Friendsville section should be cleared up by noon.

Work Around Clock

A brief power failure hit the Grantsville-Jennings area Thursday, but was cleared up early Thursday night.

A few of the line crews have put in 40 hours of continuous work since the storm broke, but virtually all were called in last night as fog rolled in, making it impossible to work.

Officials said about 75 per cent of the repairmen have worked around the clock in order to restore service.

About 40 extra linesmen were augmenting Frostburg area crews yesterday in order to restore service as quickly as possible.

In a number of communities, candles were the best selling item, until stores ran out.

Births

Memorial Hospital

Mr. and Mrs. Glendon A. Ralston, 620 Laing Avenue, a son yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur R. Swadley, Ridgeley, a daughter yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. James R. Corley, Baltimore Pike, a daughter yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin L. Meyers, RD 2, a son Thursday night.

Weather, Yule Trees Add To Woes Of Garbage Crews

Snow, ice and sleet, along with Yule tree collections and heavy accumulations of holiday refuse, added up to a rough week for city garbage collection crews.

The crews which collect garbage, ashes and rubbish in the North End late Thursday night, failed to cover the area by morning and had to go back yesterday to empty receptacles on five streets.

Some of the garbage was not picked up, officials said, because it was placed in cardboard containers, which would have fallen apart as soon as the men tried to pick them up.

And one member of the staff said one ash can weighed at least 100 pounds. The limit is 40 pounds, which is sufficient since collectors must pick cans up and raise them over their heads in order to drop the contents into the covered garbage trucks.

On Tuesday night, when the heaviest snow of the season fell, the crews had to skip one street in the South End section, but returned later after the snow was packed down.

The Christmas tree collection was disappointing in one way, officials said. Many people, they said, left the trees lying along the side of their homes instead of placing them along the curb.

Trees were picked up at both regular collections this week, double the service usually offered.

Public-Spirited Citizens Demand Support For New Bruce School

Legislation May Be Introduced For Construction

Some 80 public-spirited citizens of Westernport and Luke appeared before the Allegany County Board of Commissioners at a special meeting yesterday afternoon in the Circuit Court room to press their urgent demands for a new Bruce High School.

The commissioners expressed interest in their school problems but urged that no mandatory legislation be introduced in the current session of the General Assembly in Annapolis.

Two Spokesmen

Although the delegation was large only two persons spoke for the entire citizens' group. They were Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., member of the House of Delegates who came from Annapolis yesterday morning to attend the session, and V. Browne Kooken.

Whitworth made some introductory remarks then Kooken explained in detail some of the shortcomings of the school which was built in 1922 to serve only Westernport and Luke. Whitworth concluded the discussion by asking the commissioners for their views.

William H. Lemmert, president of the Board of County Commissioners, informed the citizens that the commissioners met Tuesday with Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster to discuss the county school needs, with special emphasis on Westernport. He offered no details of the plans for Westernport.

Two Alternatives

Gorman E. Getty, attorney to the commissioners, said that two alternatives for Westernport were discussed—an addition to the present building and an entirely new school.

At the beginning of his discussion, Lemmert read a prepared statement concerning the commissioners' views. It read, in part:

"The law has vested in the Board of Education the right and responsibility for determining when and where public schools will be built and the only part that the County Commissioners have ever had in such matters has been to raise the necessary money to do the work. We have from time to time conferred with the Board of Education and expressed our in-

Three Dimension Film Seen Here For First Time

CD Workers Witness 16-Minute Movie

Some 20 Civil Defense workers connected with the Ground Observer Post on Hill Top Drive here had the opportunity last night of seeing the first public showing in Cumberland of a three-dimensional film at Allegany Inn.

The film, a 16-minute presentation, was a collection of shots taken at various places around the country.

Local Persons Seen

A portion of the movie was taken December 21 at the Ground Observer Post here. Local Civil Defense persons pictured included Charles W. Smith, county coordinator; Howard Zarger, Cumberland director; Raymond Deremer, public relations director; William Deremer, Delores Riggleman, Jessie Crawford, Graydon Dunlap and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Wallace, observers.

The film was shown by William B. Spooner, who is traveling around the country taking pictures of Civil Defense operations. Eventually, he hopes to compile a documentary movie featuring all 17 departments of Civil Defense.

As the Civil Defense observers arrived at the Allegany Inn last night each received a pair of poloroid spectacles which were worn through the showing of the three-dimensional film. As Spooner explained, three - dimensional films are made by taking two separate pictures of each action, one as it might be seen through the left eye and one as it would appear through the right eye. When the projector is placed in operation the picture image passes through a convertor before appearing on the screen. Without the poloroid spectacles the pictures on the screen would appear merely as a blur.

Vivid Impression

A number of the shots on Spooner's film gave the spectators a vivid third - dimension impression as though the person on the screen might be reaching out to touch the spectator.

This impression was most vivid when a man shot a water pistol, when a woman cut strawberry shortcake and offered a slice to the audience and when this same woman poured beer from a bottle into a glass.

Spooner reminded his small audience last night that the first showing of a three - dimensional full length movie occurred in Hollywood Thanksgiving Day, just a little over six weeks ago.

It was reported here last night that third dimensional movies will be introduced by some local theatres early this year.

Boys' 4-H Federation Will Meet January 15

The County Boys 4-H Federation will meet at the Court House at 8 p. m. Thursday, January 15, to elect officers, according to Assistant County Agent Joseph M. Steger.

Ted Grabenstein is now serving as president. The group also will discuss programs for the ensuing months of 1953.

Will Build Home

William Scott, 235 Baltimore Avenue, secured a permit from Building Engineer C. R. Nuzum this week to build a one story dwelling on Lots 9 and 10 of Block 32, Penhurst Street, Johnson Heights. The frame structure will be built by Q. L. Griffey, Ellerslie contractor, for $11,000.

Local Soldier Dies In Crash Near Tuscon

M/Sgt. John P. Abe, 29, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Abe, 253 Elder Street, died as a result of injuries suffered in a head-on highway collision Thursday in Mesa, Ariz., near Tuscon.

Full details of the accident were not known last night according to his parents.

He was stationed at Williams Air Force Base near Chandler, Ariz. for the past year. He enlisted in the service in March 1942 and during World War II served in the Pacific Theater of Operations.

A native of Cumberland, he was born July 2, 1923. Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Mary L. (Sheppard) Abe, a native of Newfoundland; two daughters, Cheryl, three-years-old and Barbara Jean, one-month-old; his parents; six brothers, Lawrence, W. Robert L., Richard D., Roger C. Abe, here.

Irvin Lee Abe, with the U. S. Navy; Sgt. Aden A. Abe, AF at Camp Stoneman, Calif.; a sister, Mrs. Edith Heterick, Spring Gap.

The body will arrive here Wednesday and will be taken to the home of his parents, 252 Elder Street.

Another Coach Added To Inaugural Special

A third chartered coach for use primarily by Allegany County citizens has been added to the special B&O train which will run to Washington on Inauguration Day, Tuesday, January 20, according to W. H. Strother, who is in charge of arrangements.

Students from Frostburg State Teachers College have chartered another coach on the train which will be made up here. The train will leave Cumberland at 6 a.m. January 20 and will begin the return trip from Washington at 7 p.m., arriving here at 10:15 p.m. The special will pick up additional passengers in Hancock, Martinsburg and Harpers Ferry.

ADDRESS CONFERENCE—Principal speakers at the annual Health Department conference for ice cream and milk plant personnel are seen yesterday as the forum opened at the Union Street County Building. They are, left to right, C. M. Moore, Cleveland, Ohio; R. H. Haycock, Philadelphia; C. B. A. Bryant, Montgomery, Mich.; Dr. Winter R. Frantz, city and county health officer, and O. S. Sager, of the Department of Agriculture, Washington. Officials of virtually all major dairy firms of the area attended.

Lonaconing Plans Changes In Town Charter

Raises Tax Limit; Reduces Council

A copy of three proposed changes to the Lonaconing City Charter is being presented to the Allegany County delegation this week by City Attorney James S. Getty for action by the General Assembly.

According to Getty the proposed changes were approved by the Mayor and Council at a meeting earlier this week. The proposals drawn up by Getty include:

A change in the charter providing for an increase in the tax rate not exceeding $1 on each $100 of assessable property. The amount will be set by ordinance.

The present measure provides for a tax rate not to exceed $.60 on each $100 of assessable property.

Drops Two Councilmen

The second proposal calls for a reduction in the number of councilmen of the town government. It provides that the number of councilmen will be reduced to four from the present six members.

The change will allow the terms of the Mayor and members of the Council to run concurrently so that at each election there will be a complete turnover in the government. With the present system only three councilmen are elected for a four year term every two years, allowing a hold over of three members at each election.

Getty added that the third proposal calls for an amendment to the charter providing a commission form of town government. This will provide a commissioner for each of the departments of police, streets, light and water and finance. These will be appointed by the mayor.

To Promote Economy

Getty said the change was proposed because under the present system the Mayor and Council all acted on every phase of town business. All of the municipal employes will continue to be appointed by the majority vote of the Mayor and Council.

Under the second proposal, Getty explained, the new system will not go into effect until May of 1955. This year's election on May 3, three councilmen will be elected for two year terms instead of four so that all terms will expire in 1955.

Mayor Virgil Alexander said the changes were adopted to promote a more efficient and economical administration.

Present members of the Lonaconing Council are Douglas Waddell, James Nightengale, William Berry, Wilmouth Garlitz, John Merrbaugh and Fred Stoudt.

Lutheran Women Will Hear Teacher

Ruth Slifer, a teacher at Kadia, India, will be the speaker when the Missionary Societies of the Mountain Conference hold a supper rally at St. Luke's Lutheran Church at 6:30 p.m. Monday, January 19.

Her theme will be "To Serve The Present Age."

Reservations for the dinner must be received by Mrs. Forrest Millerson, Bedford Road, phone 5505-W, not later than January 14.

All women of the four Lutheran churches in the Mountain Conference are invited.

Telephone Men Fight Elements Throughout Area

Several Communities Still On Silent List

Three Garrett County communities remained without telephone service last night as sleet and ice kept a grip on the area, snapping poles and pulling down lines.

Emergency Crews of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company have been working around the clock in an effort to restore communication to the isolated sections. Additional crews have been called in from the Eastern Shore bringing the total number of workmen to about 200.

Thursday crews and emergency generating equipment were brought in from Westminster, Frederick and Hagerstown, to aid in the battle against the elements.

1500 Phones Out

Thus far about 1,500 telephones have been knocked out of service by the winter's worst storm as about 100 poles snapped. Much of the wiring and equipment was installed only recently in the Garrett County section when it was converted to dial telephones.

The lines, straining under ice formations over two inches thick in some places, snapped. Crossarms on dozens of poles broke like match sticks.

Frostzurg had about 17 lines and 81 stations out; Mt. Savage, five lines, 21 stations; Lonaconing, 10 lines, 45 stations; Flintstone, five lines and 34 stations.

The toll circuit from Cumberland to Parkersburg was practically cleared late last night, and there were two lines from here to Oakland.

Weather Still Bad

Little relief was forseen to help the situation in Garrett County since the weather man predicted snow flurries throughout Western Maryland with the temperatures turning colder tonight.

Roads in this section last night were reported as "very foggy" on the mountains and icy in spots especially from Frostburg west toward Grantsville where sleet was falling and chains recommended by state police.

Romney State Police reported roads as being foggy but mostly clear east toward Winchester and west toward Clarksburg on Route 50.

The high temperature recorded here yesterday was 34 degrees according to the official weather station at Constitution Park and the low was 31 degrees.

At 8 p. m. yesterday the mercury registered 33 degrees. Total precipation for Cumberland during the past few days was 1.34 inches. Humidity at 6 p. m. yesterday was 95 per cent.

Crash Survivor Seeks Damages

James Thompson, Piedmont, W. Va., the sole survivor among six passengers in a car which was demolished August 31 in Allegany County's worst traffic accident, yesterday filed a $10,000 suit in Circuit Court here against the widow of the driver of the car.

Thompson, through Attorney Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., filed the suit against Elizabeth A. Gilmore, administratrix of the estate of Timothy M. Gilmore.

In his declaration, Thompson said that Gilmore drove the car along McMullen Highway, between Cresaptown and Rawlings at an excessively high and unlawful rate of speed which caused the tragic crash. The Piedmont man said he received serious, dangerous and permanent injuries about his head, body and limbs. He also contends he has incurred great expense for hospital service, medical and surgical care.

Two Youths Enlist

Two local youths have enlisted in the U. S. Navy and have been sent to Bainbridge, Md. for boot training.

They are James Arlie Martin, 17, of 119 Potomac Street, and Warner Wade Woodson, 19, of 345 Frederick Street.

ICE-LADEN WIRES — Jack Cook, a C&P Telephone Company repairman from Cumberland, is shown as he struggled with telephone lines at Hoyes, in Garrett County, which were laden down with some two-and-one-half inches of ice. The secenery was beautiful but the job wasn't a pleasant one as linemen sought to restore service in Garrett County.

Students To Learn How To File Income Tax Returns

The income tax apparently is here to stay. They're going to start teaching it in school.

L. A. Chamberlin, director of Internal Revenue, said yesterday that educational materials designed to help junior and senior high school students learn how to file their income tax returns soon will be distributed to all secondary schools in the U. S.

The materials will be sent to the schools by the Internal Revenue Service.

Chamberlin said thousands of Maryland teen-age students have jobs after school and during the summer, and that their earnings frequently are subject to withholding tax.

Although many of the youngsters earn less than $600 a year and thus don't owe any taxes, they should know how to file a return in order to get a refund on taxes which were taken out of their wages.

The instruction materials are designed to help these students learn the correct method of filing tax returns to obtain the refunds. In some cases the students receive enough income to incur tax liability, and the instruction materials will help these students learn how to discharge their tax obligations under the law.

Many secondary schools and teachers in this state already have introduced practical income tax instruction to help their teen-age students, Chamberlin said. However, texts readily available to the schools and teachers are not always up-to-date. The materials to be distributed by the Revenue Service will provide the schools and teachers with official, up-to-date teaching aids.

Fire Sweeps Frame House At Reynolds

Volunteer firemen from three companies were called yesterday about 1 p.m. to the home of William Z. Wilt, at Reynolds, near the Campbell Coal Mines on Route 36 between Barton and Westernport.

No one was injured. Flames were confined to two upstairs bedrooms of the five-room frame building. The Barton Hose Company, according to Chief Calvin G. Lamberson, was first to arrive and had the fire under control within about two hours.

Approximately 600 gallons of water was pumped from nearby George's Creek by the two Barton pumpers, Lamberson added. Potomac Fire Company of Westernport and Tri-Towns Fire Company of Piedmont arrived later and stood by.

Cause of the fire was a faulty flue, firemen reported. One of the bedrooms was completely gutted and the other partially damaged by the fire and water.

The three rooms downstairs were damaged by the water poured into the flaming upstairs. Some of the house furnishings were carried outside. Upon discovering the fire, Wilt went to the home of his next door neighbor, Irvin Sutherland, and summoned firemen.

Fifteen persons including Wilt and his wife were occupants of the building. Last night they were staying in temporary quarters in Westernport and the Red Cross at Barton was notified for assistance.

The house was said to be owned by the Campbell Coal Company and damages were estimated at about $900. It was not known last night whether the house was covered by insurance.

Elder Is Injured In Truck Mishap

Admitted to Memorial Hospital last night was William Elder, 23, who was reported to have sustained a fractured left leg and shoulder and laceration under the left eye.

X-rays have been taken and his condition is reported by attaches as "good." State Police said Elder was driving a truck loaded with apples when it apparently got out of control due to the fog and wet road, went over an embankment and upset.

The truck was owned by the Hager Fruit Market. Elder was taken to the hospital in an ambulance of George Funeral Home. The accident occured about 5:25 p. m. and Trooper Robert D. Wolford investigated.

Carload Of Salt Ordered For Use In Future Storms

The City Street Department has ordered another carload of rock salt to keep traffic moving in this city during the winter.

Some 25 tons of salt was used Tuesday when the heaviest snow of the season hit the city. Cinders were spread on hilly spots.

Officials said the salt melted the snow within a short time on many streets and kept it "mealy" on shaded spots so that traffic could continue.

Andrew Heller, street superintendent, said all streets of the city were in good condition yesterday. Some crews were cleaning catch basins to keep the melting slush moving.

The Street Department collected about four truckloads of limbs which fell from trees within the city Thursday night as the sleet piled up.

About 30 tons of salt are on hand at the city warehouse, ready to be spread when snow or ice hits. The 40 tons on order will bring the reserve to 70 tons.

The storm delayed work on one project, cleaning brush from the bed of Wills Creek. Workers cut brush in the area near the Baltimore Street bridge Monday.

Kelly Contract Talks To Open Here Jan. 15

Local 26 Prepares Proposals For Pact

Local 26, United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastic Workers of America (CIO), will open contract negotiations with the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company Thursday, January 15.

Discussions on amendments, modifications and revision of the present pact, which was signed June 7, 1951, and is effective until March 1, will be included.

The Local 26 Contract Negotiating Committee began work this week on plans for the opening of the contract talks.

The committee includes William G. Rice, president; Ralph C. Beard and C. E. O'Baker, representing production workers, and Leo Barkman and George Simmons, from the Maintenance departments of the tire plant.

The discussions will cover all prases of the pact, including wages.

William V. Kuehner, Pittsburgh, District 1 field representative, was in Cumberland Thursday and yesterday to assist the negotiating committee to prepare for the coming pact talks.

Ski Club To Meet Sunday Afternoon

The Western Maryland Ski Club will meet tomorrow at 3:30 p. m. at the Rustic Restaurant on Route 40 according to Clark T. Kingery, publicity chairman.

Kingery said movies of the 1952 Pennsylvania Championship Races at Laurel Mountain Slopes will be shown, and the ski toboggan as a use for first aid will be demonstrated.

The meeting is open to the public and especially persons interested in joining the club. Kingery said new members need not know how to ski, and beginners will be taught by other members of the organization.

Bar Association To Elect Officers

An election of officers will be held on Tuesday at 9:15 a. m. in the Court House Library by the Allegany County Bar Association, Julius E. Schindler, president, said last night.

Lonaconing Plans Changes In Town Charter

Raises Tax Limit; Reduces Council

A copy of three proposed changes to the Lonaconing City Charter is being presented to the Allegany County delegation this week by City Attorney James S. Getty for action by the General Assembly.

According to Getty the proposed changes were approved by the Mayor and Council at a meeting earlier this week. The proposals drawn up by Getty include:

A change in the charter providing for an increase in the tax rate not exceeding $1 on each $100 of assessable property. The amount will be set by ordinance.

The present measure provides for a tax rate not to exceed $.60 on each $100 of assessable property.

Drops Two Councilmen

The second proposal calls for a reduction in the number of councilmen of the town government. It provides that the number of councilmen will be reduced to four from the present six members.

The change will allow the terms of the Mayor and members of the Council to run concurrently so that at each election there will be a complete turnover in the government. With the present system only three councilmen are elected for a four year term every two years, allowing a hold over of three members at each election.

Getty added that the third proposal calls for an amendment to the charter providing a commission form of town government. This will provide a commissioner for each of the departments of police, streets, light and water and finance. These will be appointed by the mayor.

To Promote Economy

Getty said the change was proposed because under the present system the Mayor and Council all acted on every phase of town business. All of the municipal employes will continue to be appointed by the majority vote of the Mayor and Council.

Under the second proposal, Getty explained, the new system will not go into effect until May of 1955. This year's election on May 3, three councilmen will be elected for two year terms instead of four so that all terms will expire in 1955.

Mayor Virgil Alexander said the changes were adopted to promote a more efficient and economical administration.

Present members of the Lonaconing Council are Douglas Waddell, James Nightengale, William Berry, Wilmouth Garlitz, John Merrbaugh and Fred Stoudt.

Another Coach Added To Inaugural Special

A third chartered coach for use primarily by Allegany County citizens has been added to the special B&O train which will run to Washington on Inauguration Day, Tuesday, January 20, according to W. H. Strother, who is in charge of arrangements.

Students from Frostburg State Teachers College have chartered another coach on the train which will be made up here. The train will leave Cumberland at 6 a.m. January 20 and will begin the return trip from Washington at 7 p.m., arriving here at 10:15 p.m. The special will pick up additional passengers in Hancock, Martinsburg and Harpers Ferry.

Telephone Men Fight Elements Throughout Area

Several Communities Still On Silent List

Three Garrett County communities remained without telephone service last night as sleet and ice kept a grip on the area, snapping poles and pulling down lines.

Emergency Crews of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company have been working around the clock in an effort to restore communication to the isolated sections. Additional crews have been called in from the Eastern Shore bringing the total number of workmen to about 200.

Thursday crews and emergency generating equipment were brought in from Westminster, Frederick and Hagerstown, to aid in the battle against the elements.

1500 Phones Out

Thus far about 1,500 telephones have been knocked out of service by the winter's worst storm as about 100 poles snapped. Much of the wiring and equipment was installed only recently in the Garrett County section when it was converted to dial telephones.

The lines, straining under ice formations over two inches thick in some places, snapped. Crossarms on dozens of poles broke like match sticks.

The Telephone Company at present is getting radio service from Accident, Friendsville and Kitzmiller into the Oakland office with the use of radio trailers.

Last night 47 lines and 284 stations were still out in Oakland. Here in Cumberland, about 11 lines were out affecting 80 stations.

Frostzurg had about 17 lines and 81 stations out; Mt. Savage, five lines, 21 stations; Lonaconing, 10 lines, 45 stations; Flintstone, five lines and 34 stations.

The toll circuit from Cumberland to Parkersburg was practically cleared late last night, and there were two lines from here to Oakland.

Weather Still Bad

Little relief was forseen to help the situation in Garrett County since the weather man predicted snow flurries throughout Western Maryland with the temperatures turning colder tonight.

Roads in this section last night were reported as "very foggy" on the mountains and icy in spots especially from Frostburg west toward Grantsville where sleet was falling and chains recommended by state police.

Romney State Police reported roads as being foggy but mostly clear east toward Winchester and west toward Clarksburg on Route 50.

The high temperature recorded here yesterday was 34 degrees according to the official weather station at Constitution Park and the low was 31 degrees.

At 8 p. m. yesterday the mercury registered 33 degrees. Total precipation for Cumberland during the past few days was 1.34 inches. Humidity at 6 p. m. yesterday was 95 per cent.

Lutheran Women Will Hear Teacher

Ruth Slifer, a teacher at Kadia, India, will be the speaker when the Missionary Societies of the Mountain Conference hold a supper rally at St. Luke's Lutheran Church at 6:30 p.m. Monday, January 19.

Her theme will be "To Serve The Present Age."

Reservations for the dinner must be received by Mrs. Forrest Milleson, Bedford Road, phone 5505-W, not later than January 14.

All women of the four Lutheran churches in the Mountain Conference are invited.

ICE-LADEN WIRES — Jack Cook, a C&P Telephone Company repairman from Cumberland, is shown as he struggled with telephone lines at Hoyes, in Garrett County, which were laden down with some two-and-one-half inches of ice. The secenery was beautiful but the job wasn't a pleasant one as linemen sought to restore service in Garrett County.

Students To Learn How To File Income Tax Returns

The income tax apparently is here to stay. They're going to start teaching it in school.

L. A. Chamberlin, director of Internal Revenue, said yesterday that educational materials designed to help junior and senior high school students learn how to file their income tax returns soon will be distributed to all secondary schools in the U. S.

The materials will be sent to the schools by the Internal Revenue Service.

Chamberlin said thousands of Maryland teen-age students have jobs after school and during the summer, and that their earnings frequently are subject to withholding tax.

Although many of the youngsters earn less than $600 a year and thus don't owe any taxes, they should know how to file a return in order to get a refund on taxes which were taken out of their wages.

The instruction materials are designed to help these students learn the correct method of filing tax returns to obtain the refunds. In some cases the students receive enough income to incur tax liability, and the instruction materials will help these students learn how to discharge their tax obligations under the law.

Many secondary schools and teachers in this state already have introduced practical income tax instruction to help their teen-age students, Chamberlin said. However, texts readily available to the schools and teachers are not always up-to-date. The materials to be distributed by the Revenue Service will provide the schools and teachers with official, up-to-date teaching aids.

Fire Sweeps Frame House At Reynolds

Volunteer firemen from three companies were called yesterday about 1 p.m. to the home of William Z. Wilt, at Reynolds, near the Campbell Coal Mines on Route 36 between Barton and Westernport.

No one was injured. Flames were confined to two upstairs bedrooms of the five-room frame building. The Barton Hose Company, according to Chief Calvin G. Lamberson, was first to arrive and had the fire under control within about two hours.

Approximately 600 gallons of water was pumped from nearby George's Creek by the two Barton pumpers, Lamberson added. Potomac Fire Company of Westernport and Tri-Towns Fire Company of Piedmont arrived later and stood by.

Cause of the fire was a faulty flue, firemen reported. One of the bedrooms was completely gutted and the other partially damaged by the fire and water.

The three rooms downstairs were damaged by the water poured into the flaming upstairs. Some of the house furnishings were carried outside. Upon discovering the fire, Wilt went to the home of his next door neighbor, Irvin Sutherland, and summoned firemen.

Fifteen persons including Wilt and his wife were occupants of the building. Last night they were staying in temporary quarters in Westernport and the Red Cross at Barton was notified for assistance.

The house was said to be owned by the Campbell Coal Company and damages were estimated at about $900. It was not known last night whether the house was covered by insurance.

Crash Survivor Seeks Damages

James Thompson, Piedmont, W. Va., the sole survivor among six passengers in a car which was demolished August 31 in Allegany County's worst traffic accident, yesterday filed a $10,000 suit in Circuit Court here against the widow of the driver of the car.

Thompson, through Attorney Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., filed the suit against Elizabeth A. Gilmore, administratrix of the estate of Timothy M. Gilmore.

In his declaration, Thompson said that Gilmore drove the car along McMullen Highway, between Cresaptown and Rawlings at an excessively high and unlawful rate of speed which caused the tragic crash. The Piedmont man said he received serious, dangerous and permanent injuries about his head, body and limbs. He also contends he has incurred great expense for hospital service, medical and surgical care.

Two Youths Enlist

Two local youths have enlisted in the U. S. Navy and have been sent to Bainbridge, Md. for boot training.

They are James Arlie Martin, 17, of 119 Potomac Street, and Warner Wade Woodson, 19, of 345 Frederick Street.

Elder Is Injured In Truck Mishap

A Wiley Ford truck driver suffered injuries yesterday evening in a highway accident about eight miles east of Cumberland on Route 51 near Oldtown.

Admitted to Memorial Hospital last night was William Elder, 23, who was reported to have sustained a fractured left leg and shoulder and laceration under the left eye.

X-rays have been taken and his condition is reported by attaches as "good." State Police said Elder was driving a truck loaded with apples when it apparently got out of control due to the fog and wet road, went over an embankment and upset.

The truck was owned by the Hager Fruit Market. Elder was taken to the hospital in an ambulance of George Funeral Home. The accident occured about 5:25 p. m. and Trooper Robert D. Wolford investigated.

Kelly Contract Talks To Open Here Jan. 15

Local 26 Prepares Proposals For Pact

Local 26, United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastic Workers of America (CIO), will open contract negotiations with the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company Thursday, January 15.

Discussions on amendments, modifications and revision of the present pact, which was signed June 7, 1951, and is effective until March 1, will be included.

The Local 26 Contract Negotiating Committee began work this week on plans for the opening of the contract talks.

The committee includes William G. Rice, president; Ralph C. Beard and C. E. O'Baker, representing production workers, and Leo Barkman and George Simmons, from the Maintenance departments of the tire plant.

A number of suggestions were made by members of the union at two division meetings held here during recent weeks.

The pact will cover the some 2,000 hourly paid workers of the plant.

The discussions will cover all prases of the pact, including wages.

William V. Kuehner, Pittsburgh, District 1 field representative, was in Cumberland Thursday and yesterday to assist the negotiating committee to prepare for the coming pact talks.

Ski Club To Meet Sunday Afternoon

The Western Maryland Ski Club will meet tomorrow at 3:30 p. m. at the Rustic Restaurant on Route 40 according to Clark T. Kingery, publicity chairman.

Kingery said movies of the 1952 Pennsylvania Championship Races at Laurel Mountain Slopes will be shown, and the ski toboggan as a use for first aid will be demonstrated.

The meeting is open to the public and especially persons interested in joining the club. Kingery said new members need not know how to ski, and beginners will be taught by other members of the organization.

Bar Association To Elect Officers

An election of officers will be held on Tuesday at 9:15 a. m. in the Court House Library by the Allegany County Bar Association, Julius E. Schindler, president, said last night.

Carload Of Salt Ordered For Use In Future Storms

The City Street Department has ordered another carload of rock salt to keep traffic moving in this city during the winter.

Some 25 tons of salt was used Tuesday when the heaviest snow of the season hit the city. Cinders were spread on hilly spots.

Officials said the salt melted the snow within a short time on many streets and kept it "mealy" on shaded spots so that traffic could continue.

Andrew Heller, street superintendent, said all streets of the city were in good condition yesterday. Some crews were cleaning catch basins to keep the melting slush moving.

The Street Department collected about four truckloads of limbs which fell from trees within the city Thursday night as the sleet piled up.

About 30 tons of salt are on hand at the city warehouse, ready to be spread when snow or ice hits. The 40 tons on order will bring the reserve to 70 tons.

The storm delayed work on one project, cleaning brush from the bed of Wills Creek. Workers cut brush in the area near the Baltimore Street bridge Monday.

ADDRESS CONFERENCE—Principal speakers at the annual Health Department conference for ice cream and milk plant personnel are seen yesterday as the forum opened at the Union Street County Building. They are, left to right, C. M. Moore, Cleveland, Ohio; R. H. Haycock, Philadelphia; C. B. A. Bryant, Montgomery, Mich.; Dr. Winter R. Frantz, city and county health officer, and O. S. Sager, of the Department of Agriculture, Washington. Officials of virtually all major dairy firms of the area attended.
